Scores Are Feared Killed as Blast Wrecks Ship

ICE-LOCKED NORTH SEALS IN SILENCE FATE OF 150 MEN

Sealing Vessel, Blown and Burned to Bits, 10 Miles Off Dreary Island in Arctic.

THREE AMERICAN EXPLORERS ABOARD

Maimed Men Drift Out to Frozen Seas Follow- ing Blast; Only 15 of 150 Reach Safety.

ST. JOHNS, Newfoundland, March 16.—(UP)—A poignant drama of the frozen north was being enacted tonight on the ice off Horse Island, following an explosion which shattered the sealing ship Viking and left it, a flaming hulk, to burn to the water's edge.

At 9 p. m. Sunday the ship's powder magazine or its boiler blew up. Many of the crew of 140 to 150 were killed outright. The others, dazed if not maimed, were thrown out onto the pack ice eight miles from Horse Island.

Only 15 Reach Shore.

Fifteen men or so reached shore this morning. Fishermen tried with great difficulty and little success to rescue more. More than 100 were still afloat tonight, and being carried out to sea on small ice floes by a stiff offshore wind.

Two rescue ships were on the way from St. Johns. Neither is due until tomorrow.

Among the men unaccounted for are three Americans. They are: Varick Friswell, Yale graduate and scientist, thrill seeker, of New York. He was making a motion picture of winter sealing.

Henry Jackson Sargent, of Boston, an amateur explorer of note and a Harvard graduate.

A. E. Penrod, of New York, Friswell's cameraman and close friend, and a scientist, thrill seeker, of New York. He was making a motion picture of winter sealing.

One survivor of the wreck said he saw Friswell on the ice, but it is not known whether he reached shore. There is no word of the others.

There were conflicting reports all evening as to the Americans. The difficulty was primarily that the survivors were exhausted and still too horrified by the disaster they had gone through to talk coherently.

The Americans, however, like most officers of the ship, were in cabins aft. The explosion blew the aft portion of the ship to pieces.

Captain Abraham Kohn, master of the Viking, was one of those who made shore. He was too weak to talk.

The navigator, the ship's doctor, the wireless operator, the cabin cook, were among those missing.

The disaster tonight had assumed proportions which it seemed almost rank it as among the great ones of the northern seas. Radio reports from Horse Island, which told of living men being blown out to the sea alongside sunken corpses as those ashore watched helplessly, gave little hope that many could be saved.

Rescuers Are Helpless.

All along the Newfoundland coast watchers were out, hoping to sight a habited ice floe and to reach it by a difficult task—by boat and komatiks, or Labrador ice sled.

Pair Vacate on Time, But Bodies Are Left

ELGIN, Ill., March 16.—Several days ago Charles B. Haltin, 57, was asked when he and his wife would evacuate their home, which had been sold over a mortgage foreclosure.

"We will be gone by March 14," he replied.

Saturday both Haltin and his 49-year-old wife, Signs, went—but they left their bodies in the house they loved so well. A laconic note, "It is now 5:30 o'clock. God bless you and help you," addressed to a sister of Mrs. Haltin, was the last act on earth of the Haltins. They committed suicide together by gas.

DEATH OF ANOTHER GIRL VICE VICTIM STIRS N.Y. PROBES

Former Augusta, Ga., Girl, Witness Against Police, Dies Mysteriously; Poison Suspected.

WEARY OF CROWD, WROTE GEORGIA GIRL

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 16.—(P)—Georgia Gray, dancer, who died in New York Saturday under what authorities said were suspicious circumstances, wrote her grandmother here two months ago for money to return home, saying she was "tired of the crowd I am running with."

The grandmother, Mrs. R. E. Doolittle, told Augusta officers she received a letter from the girl, whose real name was Faicia Dickens, two months ago in response to an advertisement for her. Mrs. Doolittle had inserted in a theatrical weekly.

The girl's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Cameron, said she had not heard from her daughter in several years.

Mrs. Doolittle left for New York tonight to return the body to Augusta. She was informed of the death by a telegram signed "H. C. Barber." There was no further identification of the sender.

NEW YORK, March 16.—(P)—Death following the trail of the city vice investigators has claimed its third victim.

Georgia Gray, 25, dancer and witness against members of the police vice squad, died supposedly of pneumonia in Bellevue hospital Saturday, police revealed tonight. The body of the titian-haired beauty was identified by an investigator of the district attorney's staff. Circumstances of her death were so suspicious, the authorities said, that they ordered an autopsy and search for poison in her vital organs.

Unexplained circumstances in connection with her going to the hospital under a fictitious name prompted the city toxicologist to order an immediate examination and Chief Magistrate Joseph E. Corrigan took charge of the body.

Shock caused by news of the beauty's death was intensified by the mystery of certain bruises reported to have been found on her body and which hospital officials said had been received before she was taken to New York under the name of Viola Smith.

With the strangling of Vivian Gordon unsolved and the tragic suicide of the 16-year-old daughter, Benita Bischoff, resulting from revelations brought about by her murder, the death of Georgia Gray threw the vice investigators into a new flurry of excitement.

Pennsylvania Wreck Injures Several

PHILADELPHIA, March 16.—(P)—Reports received at the headquarters of the Pennsylvania Railroad here said that six cars of the 9 p. m. express from Philadelphia to New York were derailed tonight at Bristol, Pa., and that three of them, all baggage cars, had rolled down an embankment. Three coaches that left the track were said to have remained upright.

Railroad officials said several persons were injured but that no deaths had been reported. A relief train was sent from this city.

LUKE LEA INDICTED IN NORTH CAROLINA

Publisher's Son Also Linked With Failure of Asheville Bank.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., March 16.—(P)—Colonel Luke Lea, Tennessee publisher; his son, Luke Lea, Jr., and E. P. Charlet, of Nashville, and six officers and directors of the closed Asheville Central Bank and Trust Company were indicted by the Buncombe county grand jury today on a charge of violating the state banking laws.

The indictment marked the third time sweeping legal action has been taken as a result of the failure here last year of banks with deposits of approximately $200,000,000.

Those against whom the true bills were returned today, in addition to the three Nashvilles, were Wallace B. Davis, charged in an indictment containing six counts with conspiracy to defraud the Central Bank & Trust Company, and by means of the alleged conspiracy with defrauding the institution of a total of $880,000 by the issue of certificates of deposit on the Asheville bank, payable to the Bank of Tennessee without money or its equivalent but through wrongful use of cashier's checks.

Six other indictments were returned against Wallace B. Davis, president of the defunct bank. Two involved the alleged issuance of two $100,000 certificates of deposit to the Bank of Tennessee.

Pay for Children in Schools Is Advocated by Henry Ford

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 16.—(P)—Radical changes in principles of education, and what, when and how to do, hold the attention of Henry Ford.

Dietetics is the new field of endeavor in the world today, he said in explaining his interest in the subject.

On the other hand, the age-old problem of education demands attention if the youngsters of each generation are to benefit, in his opinion. He urged establishment of vocational schools throughout the nation as a panacea for wasted effort by school children.

Mr. Ford would combine practical and technical instruction with the teaching of theory. Young people, in all cases, should learn to read and write and gain a solid foundation along these lines, he said.

But from the eighth grade, he said, practice and technique should hold equally with theory.

"Young people ought to be paid to go to school," he declared. "They ought to learn to handle finances as well as to do other work."

The automobile manufacturer practices what he preaches. At the schools what he preaches. At the schools what he preaches. At the schools what he preaches.

BOROUGH TO SUE FOR BRADY CLAIM

Action Planned To Re- cover $30,000 Paid in Deal Involving Taylor.

Borough council Monday afternoon authorized suit to recover $30,000 paid in settlement of the claim of the Brady estate, which held up construction of the Pryor street and Central avenue viaducts, and first steps were taken in an effort to bring within the borough limits property of the Atlanta Flow Company and the Atlantic Steel Company.

Councilman Homer C. Foster, of the ninth ward, is author of the measure which instructs City Attorney James L. Mayson to enter suit jointly against George Spence, attorney, and Walter C. Taylor, former city clerk, for the $30,000 paid Spence for the Brady heirs. Councilman John A. White, of the fourth ward, is author of the second measure, which was sent to the charter revision committee for consideration.

BROTHERS' TRIAL DRAWS BIG CROWD

Chicago Court Seethes With Excitement as Lin- gle Slaying Case Begins.

CHICAGO, March 16.—(P)—Wide-spread heralding of "Jake" Linglie's assassination last June and the host of events piled in its wake proved a barrier to rapid selection of jurors today for the trial of Leo V. Brothers, charged with slaying the Tribune crime reporter.

As the trial started before a close-packed throng, both defense and prosecution dwelt consistently on the prominence given the slaying in Chicago newspapers.

At the end of the day only 10 veniremen had been questioned—three being tentatively accepted, six excused for cause or by preemptory challenges, and one still on the stand as court adjourned.

The three tentatively in the box were Frank J. Ellerman, Herman Isaacson and Edward J. Brown. They withstood the barrage of inquiries about their knowledge of the case through newspaper accounts and their ability to maintain an open mind.

The monotonous selection of jurors was delayed until late in the morning so the prosecution could submit the names of additional witnesses.

Most striking of these was Father John Reynolds, of Notre Dame University. He was believed to be the "priest" who witnessed the killing and then faded into the background, never coming forward to reveal himself publicly. Another was Clark R. Applegate, Owensboro, Ky., and New Orleans race horse owner, brought here from New Orleans by the state's attorney's office and the special Linglie "board of strategy."

Three other names were on the list—Patrick Campbell, Daniel Mills and Marcus David, all of Chicago. These three were believed to have been past witnesses in the Linglie case.

Bald Eagle Is Killed In Duel With Plane

A flurry of feathers and flesh showered the mountain tops in Essex County, N. Y., yesterday, marking the finish of a duel between a natural eagle known as "Old Baldy" and a mechanical opponent called the airplane.

Old Baldy for years had held dominion over the Essex Adirondacks, sweeping the skies with his enormous wings. He kept his power as tenaciously as his lifeless brother on the American quarter stuck to the silver. And so when an airplane trespassed, he attacked it with vengeance. But poor Old Baldy found the beak of the metal bird treacherous and he was caught in the whirling propeller.

FAIN AND CARTER, REDUCED OFFICERS GET FORMER RANK

Council Criticizes Police Board, But Votes To Reinstate Salary of Captain and Lieutenant.

One of the most perplexing problems yet faced by the present administration was solved Monday when council voted to reinstate the salary of a captain and a lieutenant in the police department, thereby ending a row in the police committee.

Action of council Monday afternoon followed a session of the police committee Monday morning at which Grover C. Fain, demoted from a captain's position he has held since 1924 to that of a patrolman, was returned to the grade of captain after less than 48 hours as a patrolman.

Fain was demoted at a session of the police committee Saturday afternoon and reinstated Monday morning.

Though council's action was featured by scathing criticism of the police committee for failing to carry out the council's mandate to demote one of the four captains, it means that L. F. (Nick) Carter, demoted to a patrolman in accordance with the council action taken in January, will be raised again immediately.

Vote on reinstatement of the salaries, amounting to approximately $820 for the year, in accordance with the finance committee recommendation was 17 for and 8 against.

Councilman Raymond Curtis, of the tenth ward, attempted to have council demote Captain J. L. Gordon, who, Chief of Police James L. Beavers recommended, should be relieved of his commission. This move failed.

Councilman Ellis B. Barrett, of the thirteenth ward; John A. White, of the fourth, and Alderman Ed A. Gilliam, of the twelfth ward, led the fight against placing the funds again in the hands of the police committee.

Alderman Alvin Richards, chairman of the police committee, defended that body, declaring there had been a honest division of opinion. Fight over the proposals consumed more than an hour.

MOSELEY ELECTED TO SUCCEED GANN

Popular Hotel Man Takes Place of Retiring 6th Ward Alderman.

Alderman Robert E. Gann, of the sixth ward, Monday afternoon resigned his position as alderman, and council immediately elected L. O. Moseley, president of the Atlanta Hotel Men's Association, to succeed him.

Gann, who has served in council as alderman for more than four years, said that ill health made him unable to continue in that post, and council accepted his resignation with regret.

When Mayor James L. Key mounted the rostrum to hold the election for Gann's successor, he declared he believed he spoke the sentiment of all Mr. Gann's colleagues "when I say we wish his speedy recovery."

Moseley is a former night city editor of The Constitution, and now is manager of the Ansley hotel. He is well known in business, financial and civic circles, although the aldermanic position to which he was elected Monday in his first venture into politics as a serious contender. He announced against Gann in his last campaign, but retired from the race because of business pressure at that time.

FRIENDS OF BILL PLAN TO LAUNCH FIGHT ON ACTION

Lines of Measure's Pro- ponents Tightly Drawn. Opponents Reported To Have Lost One Member.

VETO PUT AT TOP OF TODAY'S WORK

Allen's Motion To Pass W. & A. Plan Left Pend- ing; Discounting "Un- necessary"—Hardman.

BY R. E. POWELL.

Confidence that the house and senate will vote, probably today, to override Governor Hardman's veto of the Battle-Allen bill to discount Western and Atlantic railroad rentals was expressed by general assembly leaders late Monday after the governor had notified both houses that he would not sign the bill and its friends had counted noses in the senate.

A reported round robin of 10 senate members pledged to sustain the veto was said to have suffered the loss of at least one of its signers, while the lines of the proponents, including President W. Cecil Neill, were declared to be holding firm.

Governor Hardman's message, returning the bill without his approval, reached both houses shortly after noon, but neither acted. The senate was in the midst of an adjournment motion and the house engaged in debate on the bus bill at the time the veto was announced. It will be called up in the house this morning and after the lower body acts will be sent over to the senate.

Hardman's Stand.

In returning the bill without approval, Governor Hardman said:

"This extraordinary session of the general assembly was called to relieve the present emergency caused by a temporary deficit in the state treasury. It is my firm conviction that it is neither necessary for the state to sacrifice its valuable property and its future income nor to increase the burdens of taxation upon its citizens to relieve this emergency. The total income of the state, amounting to $31,246,801 a year, is greater than before in our history. This sum is large enough and in my judgment if it is equitably and justly distributed every interest supported by our state will be properly cared for and our state government will be able to operate on a sound basis."

The rental discount bill, the only plan the assembly has not frowned upon for relieving the financial emergency at the eleventh hour, is in the common schools, passed the house by a vote of 146 to 50 and the senate by a vote of 14 to 50, without amendment, 27 to 22.

It provides for the sale of the state's Western & Atlantic railroad rentals for ten years on condition that the yield be not less than $3,200,000. They have previously been hypothecated until 1936 and Atlanta banks have indicated they would of-

ALMSHOUSE SITE ACTION POSTPONED

Definite action on the proposal to exchange the 300-acre almshouse property in north Fulton county for a 1,200-acre tract in the southwestern section of the county Monday was postponed until Thursday morning by the Fulton commissioners, pending a visit by Chairman Walter C. Hendrix to the prospective new site of the almshouse.

The alms and juveniles committee recommended that the trade be accepted, but Commissioner Edward H. Luman, chairman of the finance committee, opposed the move, declaring that the present site of the alms house is directly in line with the north side development and is due for an increase in value.

The Reppess & Reppess audit of the county for 1930, showing an unfavorable position by $1,200,000 will come up for consideration at the regular meeting April 1, it was said.

Atlanta Nobles Greet Governor of Indiana, Active Shriner and One-Time Baseball Star

Governor Harry G. Leslie, of Indiana, who also is a crack baseball player in his spare time, was given an enthusiastic welcome Monday morning at the Union station by a group of Shriners from Yaarab temple when he stopped over for a few moments en route to Sarasota, Fla., where he expects to join the Indianapolis baseball club for their spring workout.

Governor Leslie, himself a prominent Shriner, and his party were met by R. N. Fickett, Jr., illustrious potentate of Yaarab temple; Thomas C. Law, past potentate; Dewald A. Cohen, chief rabbi; H. R. Romans, assistant rabbi; Noble Harry F. Green and Noble Brad Byrd. Frank T. Alexander, division passenger agent of the L. & N. railroad, and E. M. Stewart, traveling insurance agent of the Central of Georgia, also were among those meeting the governor.

The governor's party included Henry Marshall, of Lafayette, Ind., and John C. Ruckelshaus, Harry Boggs and Dr. Harry Pharr, all of Indianapolis.

Governor Leslie's interest in baseball dates from his college days when he was a brilliant player, having at one time been offered a contract by the St. Louis Browns. The governor decided to stick to law, however, which led him into politics and thence to the governor's chair at Indianapolis.

Sweaters Knitted By Mrs. Hoover To Clothe Needy

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP)—Five sweaters knitted by Mrs. Herbert Hoover brightened the meeting today of the Red Cross unit organized by Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, to make garments for the unemployed and their families. The sweaters varied in color and size, some being for children and others for adults. They were presented by the first lady on the eve of her departure for Asheville, N. C., to visit her son, Herbert Hoover, Jr.

Work on the garments has been sandwiched between social engagements, care of her grandchildren and other activities.

Mrs. Hoover likes to knit. She dressed two dolls in imitation of her little grandchildren last Christmas to sell at the local thrift shop. Little knitted sweaters of pink and blue which she made were part of their outfits.

A year ago her needles were busily flying as she spent many hours on a couch recovering from a sprained back. While knitting she received a delegation of mountaineers, who had brought her a homespun frock.

BYRD TO GET $25,000 FROM BLACK ESTATE

BALTIMORE, Md., March 16.—(AP)—From the estate of Van Lear Black, newspaper publisher and aviation enthusiast, Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, it was indicated today, is to obtain $25,000 toward the deficit from his expedition to the south pole.

The existence of a note to Byrd from Black, written before the Byrd expedition started, promising $25,000 was revealed today with the filing of a claim against the estate.

Jesse N. Govey, attorney for the Black estate executor, filed the claim, and it was indicated that the heirs had agreed it should be paid.

Black's note was penned aboard his yacht, the Sabalo, from which he disappeared last August. Rear Admiral Byrd, his wife and his mother were aboard. The letter, dated September 21, 1928, said:

"Dear Dick: If upon your return from your antarctic expedition you should be short of funds up to or any part of $25,000, I will supply that amount."

"If you do not return, I will send your wife $25,000 in full."

T. W. Rogan, who was Mr. Black's secretary, said today that the publisher did not approve of the antarctic expedition because he thought the danger was too great, and tried in vain to dissuade Byrd from making the trip.

"He told Admiral Byrd he wouldn't give him five cents to help him commit suicide," Rogan recalled.

The former secretary said that last fall Byrd showed him the letter and asked what should be done.

"He expressed distaste for legal action," said Rogan. "The present suit is merely the form required by laws."

Mr. Black made aviation history with flights from northern Europe to Capetown and to the Dutch West Indies. A few months after his return from a world trip by plane he disappeared from his yacht while en route from New York to the Chesapeake bay.

Judge Allen Cox, of Baldwin, Miss., will sentence the trio at 9 o'clock Friday morning.

PRINCE SERGE EXPECTS TO MARRY M'CORMICK

LOS ANGELES, March 16.—(AP)—The Evening Express says Prince Mdivani, prince of Georgia, has declared his intention of wedding Mary McCormick, operatic singer, this week in southern California.

Miss McCormick will leave Chicago today or tomorrow, he said, and the ceremony will be as quiet and secret as possible.

Miss McCormick will give up her operatic career, said the prince, whose previous venture into matrimony was with Pola Negri.

NEGRO POPULATION SHOWS BIG LOSSES

During the last 30 years Georgia's white population has increased 18 times as much as its negro population, according to an analysis of the census reports made by the commission on interracial co-operation.

From 1,181,294 in 1900, the white population of the state increased to the 1930 total of 1,836,974, a gain of 655,680, or 55.5 per cent. Meanwhile the negro population showed a net increase of only 36,312, from 1,034,813 in 1900 to 1,071,125 in 1930, or 3.5 per cent.

The small net gain has been due both to a higher mortality rate and to the migration of negroes to other sections of the country, the commission found. In the last decade the migration was especially heavy, causing an actual decrease of 135,240 in the state's negro population between 1920 and 1930.

Price of Foodstuffs Declining in Atlanta

Retail prices of foodstuffs are declining steadily in Atlanta, it was shown Monday in statistics compiled by the bureau of labor statistics.

Residents are now paying prices for food that exceed the pre-war prices of 1913 by only 30 per cent, it was stated. Not only are these prices less than a third higher than 17 years ago, but on January 15 they were 10.2 less than on the corresponding date of 1930, it was stated.

From December 13, 1930, to January 13 of this year, prices have descended 4.9 per cent, it was shown.

MISSING GIRL FOUND A CORPSE

CONEMAUGH, Pa., March 16.—(AP)—The battered body of Betty Mowry, 7, who had been missing from her home here since last Friday, was found today under the attic floor of the home of Harry Starchock, 28. The skull of the child had been crushed. Mrs. Matthew Swab, coroner of Cambria county, said the body was circled, and police rushed Starchock out the back door to the Cambria county jail in Johnstown, two miles away, when threats against him were heard from the crowd.

Starchock, who is married, was arrested. A large crowd gathered about the jail as the report of the finding of the body was circulated, and police rushed Starchock out the back door to the Cambria county jail in Johnstown, two miles away, when threats against him were heard from the crowd.

Starchock's wife, Margaret, 22, was taken into custody a short time after the arrest of Starchock. She is being held without bail.

COUNCIL APPROVES NEW TRAFFIC BODY

Mayor James L. Key is empowered to appoint a special traffic commission to work with the councilmanic committee on traffic in attempting to solve the problem of Atlanta, under a councilmanic resolution passed Monday.

Councilman James L. Wells, chairman of the traffic committee of council, offered the resolution. Revision and standardization of traffic rules in Atlanta will be one of the principal duties of the committee.

Although the paper failed to provide the number to be named, the mayor stated he thought a dozen would be sufficient. He may appoint members from any part of Atlanta and is not restricted to borough limits under the measure as approved by council.

NEVADA TO GIVE SIX-WEEK DIVORCES

CARSON CITY, Nev., March 16.—(AP)—Nevada's six weeks' divorce bill by which Reno hopes to retain its position as the nation's divorce capital against competition from Hot Springs, Ark., and Boise, Idaho, passed the state senate today and was sent to Governor Fred Balzar. The measure will become effective May 1 on approval by the governor. It provides that suits for divorce may be filed after either party to the action has resided in the state continuously for six weeks.

Arkansas and Idaho recently enacted laws permitting the filing of divorce actions after three months' residence, the period required at present in Nevada. Fearing that Hot Springs and Boise would lure away its profitable divorce business, estimated to be worth $3,000,000 annually, Reno replied with the six weeks' legislation. Only one dissenting vote was cast in the senate. The house previously had given unanimous approval.

WATER DISCOUNTS WILL BE CREDITED

Work of Rebating $40,000 To Be Started by Borough Today.

Water department attaches today will begin crediting $40,000 to Atlanta's 57,000 water consumers as a result of conciliatory action Monday in approving a fund of $3,000 as attorney's fees in the event the high court's award that sum to those who filed injunction proceedings against the borough in its futile attempt to eliminate water discounts.

Signature of Mayor James L. Key is the only obstacle in the way of beginning the actual work of making credits, and it was predicted that the mayor will approve the paper today. Suit for the fees has been filed by William G. McRae, Fulton county legislator-elect, who represented citizens in the suit to prevent the borough from eliminating water discounts. Fulton county superior courts sustained the injunction, and McRae entered suit to force payment of attorneys' fees amounting to $3,000. Pending decision on this point, the borough had to guarantee to the courts that the $3,000 would be available in the event of an adverse decision against the borough, and on recommendation of the finance committee Monday afternoon council set up the fund.

Too Many Bells Good Ground for Divorce

CHICAGO, March 16.—(AP)—There were far too many bells in the marriage of Mrs. Stella M. Weber, she told Superior Judge John J. Sullivan, through her attorney. First there were the wedding bells when she married John Weber, an electrician. She had no objection to these but when John rigged up a device by which he could annoy her by ringing four telephone and three door bells in her home at the same time, it was too much and she asked for a divorce. She got it.

American Kills Self In Rome Police Cell

ROME, March 16.—(AP)—Leo Davidson, an American under arrest here as a member of an international conference gang, committed suicide in his cell at the central police station today. He was 50 years old.

Davidson, who was arrested at San Remo, arrived in Rome today to face charges of swindling a British colonel out of $35,000. He was found in his cell, hanging from the iron bars with a rope made of a twisted suit of underwear. Davidson's wife, who is said to live in Berlin, was being sought by police. He had an American passport and also a British, which police say had been falsified in the name of Carlo Dunn. A companion of Davidson at San Remo, known to police only by the name of "Tenny," escaped, or, as he said, "I got away."

CHAPLAIN BLAMED FOR JOLET RIOTS

Removal of Minister Is Asked for "Fomenting Disaffection" Among Prisoners.

JOLIET, Ill., March 16.—(AP)—A tumult of accusation against an ousted chaplain rose above the rumbling of rebellion in the old state prison today.

Turning from his announcement that a second prisoner had died of wounds suffered in Saturday's riot, Warden Henry C. Hill charged that Rev. George Whitmeyer had fomented discontent, carried messages for convicts and, knowingly or not, had been a messenger in a jail delivery plot. "My conscience is clear, and I am not afraid of an honest investigation," replied the clergyman, former pastor of an Episcopal parish at Herrin. He had tendered the requested resignation February 25, terming the killing of three escaping prisoners three days previously "murder."

A crescendo of rebellion rose today as the "grapevine" carried word of the death of George Jakowis, shot by a guard during the uprising Saturday. His was the sixth death among the convicts in a month—three ran into waiting gunners as they lowered them from the stone walls February 22; Joseph Cookley's death from a shot in the heart while in solitary confinement last week precipitated a legislative investigation, and two were killed and two wounded in the riot.

A reversion to normal routine seemed no nearer tonight, and national guard companies in northern Illinois were under orders to be ready for service on an instant's call. Tomorrow a legislative committee will resume its inquiry at Springfield while a coroner's jury here sits in judgment over the death of the two convicts.

Mr. Whitmeyer denied every charge against him and said he knew he was to be "framed." He said he would not testify before the legislators but would demand an inquiry into the "framed" charges. He blamed the rebellious spirit on "high-handed treatment of the prisoners by Deputy Warden Erickson and Captain B. A. Davenport" for inflicting a prison regulation. Davenport was the guard captain attacked and beaten by convicts Saturday.

N. C. DEBATE TEAM DEFEATED BY TECH

Members of the debating team of Georgia Tech Monday night won a decision over the University of North Carolina, at the Tech Y. M. C. A. when they upheld the affirmative side of the question, "Resolved, That the Separate States Should Enact Legislation Providing Compulsory Employment Insurance."

Furman Smith and Russell Brooks argued the affirmative for Tech, while E. E. Erickson and J. M. Bailey championed the negative for North Carolina. Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Tech, presided at the debate and the following judges gave the decision: Dr. Philip Davidson, Dr. E. H. Johnson and Dr. Witherspoon Dodge. Their decision was unanimous.

DOWNTOWN BLAST REMAINS MYSTERY

Investigation of the explosion in the basement of the Atlanta Trust company building at Broadway and Marietta streets probably will be dropped by police today, it was seen Monday night when Detective Lieutenant T. He was of the opinion that dynamite caused the blast, but could not learn in what manner it was set off.

MALARIA DEATH RATE IN GEORGIA DECREASES

Drainage activities of the state board of health during 1930 effected a reduction of 38.1 per 100,000 population in the malarial death rate, according to announcement Monday by Dr. T. F. Abernethy, state commissioner of health.

The actual number of deaths reported to the department for 1930 was 432 as against 677 for 1929, Dr. Abernethy said. Another factor which contributed to lowering the rate was the drought of 1930, which held the total rainfall for the state to about 45 inches.

ARREST ATTEMPT FATAL TO THREE

MONTICELLO, Ind., March 16.—(AP)—A sheriff's attempt to arrest two brothers for bank robbery resulted in death to all three from gunfire at the home of the suspects' mother north of here yesterday.

Ray Fisher, 40, sheriff of White county, was shot in the head and injured. He started to read a warrant of arrest for the brothers, who were wanted in connection with a bank robbery at Tippecanoe county circuit court.

Then, officers said, Talbott shot to death his brother, William Talbott, 34, and committed suicide. Deputy Sheriff Barney Ireland, who accompanied Fisher unarmed, was shot through the hand as he fled from the scene. As he ran to a neighbor's home, he heard two other shots which may have been the ones fatal to the Talbotts. A posse he called found the bodies, one lying across the other.

The warrant carried by Fisher charged participation in the $1,400 robbery of the Battle Ground (Ind.) State bank last February 6. A neighbor of the Talbotts, William C. Taylor, is under arrest at Covington, Ind., as a suspect in the robbery, in which three men took part.

At Indianapolis, Edward L. Osborne, chief of the state bureau of criminal identification and investigation, said two clerks of the Battle Ground bank had viewed the Talbotts secretly and had identified them as members of the bandit gang. The three men killed were boyhood friends and neighbors. Scott Talbott was one of Fisher's strongest supporters in the political campaign last November which elected the sheriff to his second term.

Scott Talbott was unmarried and lived with his mother, Mrs. Harriett Talbott, on the farm where the shooting occurred. William Talbott lived with his family several miles away. Officials said they believed William's presence at the farm indicated the pair were warned of impending arrest and had arranged to lie in wait for the officers.

LONG AND BILBO IN VERBAL CLASH

Louisianian Hits Mississippi for Failure to Continue Paved Roads.

NEW ORLEANS, March 16.—(AP)—The governors of Louisiana and Mississippi today became embroiled in a heated exchange of long-distance personalities and flung hotly worded statements at each other across the state line.

Huey P. Long, Louisiana's governor and senator-elect, started it when he issued a statement here criticizing Mississippi for alleged failure to continue Louisiana's hard surfaced roads to the eastward. Governor Theodore G. Bilbo, of Mississippi, took up the gauge of battle tonight by declaring that of Forbisher Huey will attend to his own business, in his own way, he won't have to wait long before Mississippi will build her roads and build them right because the people of Mississippi are going to elect legislators this summer that will carry out my program of hard-surfaced roads.

Governor Long's statement contained the charge that "the politicians of that state (Mississippi) are strangling the taxpayers, wasting the money of their state money." The Louisiana executive gave it as his opinion that "in the first place, Mississippi ought to get out and get itself a governor, and then the state would be able to lay the way down the line; a governor who will listen to reason and who will not be misled with a coterie trying to block every move."

Says State Is Tied. He said "the state is now tied hand and foot with two contending factions which will not permit progress or advancement. Neither of the present factions is worth two whoppers."

To this, Governor Bilbo replied: "Louisiana's politician governor is trying to cover too much territory when he butts in on Mississippi affairs."

The Mississippi executive took particular exception to a suggestion in the Long statement that Mississippi elect M. S. Connor, a former speaker of the house, as their governor.

"The voters of Mississippi are intelligent enough to select their own governor," Long said. "I am not an enemy of Long, who is noted for his fondness for green pajamas." Governor Bilbo said in his formal statement which ended with this challenge:

"Now, Huey, you can do as you damn please with this... either dunk it or crumble it."

Refers to Politicker. He referred to the recent politician argument in the south in which Governor Long and Connor should be dunked in the liquor not crumbled.

Governor Long's statement today dealt in general with the progress of Louisiana highway work and contained the promise that two Mississippi river bridges, at New Orleans and Baton Rouge, would be started before the end of the year.

His broadside at Mississippi occurred in the declaration that we are waiting on Mississippi to get an airline paved road from New Orleans to the Gulf of Mexico. "We can't build roads for Mississippi beyond the state line. We now touch that line with concrete in six places and we are met at every point with gravel or dirt."

Governor Bilbo in reply to this said: "My hat is off to Brother Huey for his temporary success, but I make the prospect last night. I know that with his methods of living and doing things he wouldn't last 30 minutes in Mississippi."

"Let me repeat, Huey Long won't last long. When the people of Louisiana know the truth about the methods resorted to in securing both the passage of his legislative program and his election to the United States senate, there will be enough grief for Huey Long and those who were misled into voting for him."

Citizens Electrified. "The right thinking people and law abiding citizens of Louisiana were electrified for a time when Huey Long called out the state militia and closed the gambling halls of Orleans and outlying parishes. Then it was that Huey Long was impeached and he brought down upon his head, the bitter opposition of the powerful controlling influence of south Louisiana. Alas! in the twinkling of an eye a miracle was performed. Huey Long's legislative program was put over with practically the unanimous support of his opposition and by those who voted to impeach him, and then he was elected to the senate.

"Many citizens of Louisiana and the outside world have wondered how it all happened. When the real truth is known the good people of Louisiana will realize they have paid a great price for the new capitol and the hard-surfaced roads, for today the state national guard of Louisiana is quietly resting at arms in their barracks and the gambling halls are wide open and doing a bigger business than ever before in their history and I dare Huey Long to disturb them."

The unclaimed body of Jesse Exum, former Atlanta parachute performer, who was killed Saturday in an exhibition jump at Tarboro, N. C., remained Monday night at Tarboro mortuary, while city officials here attempted to locate relatives in Atlanta. It was stated that telegrams sent to an Atlanta address found on the body failed to bring any response. Exum hurtled 1,500 feet to his death when the panels of one parachute he was wearing were blown out and the second chute failed to open. Tarboro officials are anxious to obtain any information which might put them in communication with Exum's relatives.

James T. Williams, Jr., widely known young Atlanta aviator, Monday was the proud possessor of the highest rating in the gliding department of the United States military branch—that of transport pilot. Williams, flying his Warner-powered Vauque, successfully passed the required flight maneuvers Sunday before Inspector F. M. Lanter. These included spot landings, spins and "figure eights." In addition to performing these specific maneuvers, the transport license candidate must stand a difficult written test and have at least 200 solo hours in the air. Williams plans to go into aviation on a commercial basis.

Airmail-passenger schedules to be added April 1 will bring the annual United States mileage operated under contract from the postoffice department to 31,227,515 miles, as compared with an estimated 29,000,000 miles for the rest of the world, it was announced Monday. World air transport mileage reports for 1930 show: United States, the largest producer of miles flown, with Germany second and France third. The 1930 figures included: Canada, 1,000,000; France, 2,000,000; Germany, 6,719,000; Great Britain, 1,286,000; Italy, 2,500,000; and the Netherlands, 1,348,000 miles. Postoffice records showed 34,400,000 miles for the United States, this total including routes not under contract to the government.

Two new airplanes arrived at Candler field Monday—a Warner-powered Command-Aire, which will replace the Curtiss Fledgling in student operations of the local Curtiss-Wright Flying Saturday morning, and a two-place Aeronca, to be kept at Candler field for sale and demonstration purposes by the local Franklin automobile agency. The Warner job was flown here by Nathan Porter, C-W transport student from Valley Stream, L. I., who will return east by train. The Command-Aire will be placed in operation Wednesday and the Fledgling ferried to some other Curtiss-Wright base, probably at Raleigh or Columbia, in a few days. Substitution of the smaller equipment has enabled Curtiss-Wright to reduce student instruction rates.

The Aeronca, which is a new model and the first two-place product of the Cincinnati manufacturers to come south, will be kept in the Curtiss-Wright hangar by the Franklin agency, which has taken the dealership for the plane in Georgia and parts of South Carolina and Tennessee. The tiny little ship, which provides two side-by-side seats, is a high-wing monoplane, powered with a two-cylinder opposed motor of 35-horsepower, manufactured by the Aeronautical Corporation of America, makers of the plane. Hugh I. DuBoise, well known in local aviation circles, has joined the Franklin organization as demonstration pilot.

Two visiting planes, which landed at the airport late Sunday afternoon continued their flights Monday morning. The ships were a Kinner Fleet, carrying L. E. Hinton, pilot, and one passenger from Malvern, Pa., to Palm Beach, and a Challenger Robin, on a hop from Kalamazoo, Mich., to

Walker Will Not Enter Movies—Yet

PALM SPRINGS, Cal., March 16.—(AP)—Mayor James J. Walker, of New York, has been asked the question put to all celebrities who come within shouting distance of Hollywood, and has given an answer that has as many possible interpretations as a cactus has thorns.

Asked if he intended going into motion pictures, as reported, Walker said he was "satisfied to be mayor of New York," and was "not going into pictures—yet."

"Here is the whole situation," the mayor said. "This talk of my going into pictures started as far back as 1921, when I was counsel for the Motion Picture Theater Producers' Association. I got numerous offers, one in 1928 being for $250,000. But I'm too sick to consider anything now. I'm here for a rest. I'm satisfied to be mayor of New York and I'm not going into motion pictures—yet."

St. Mihiel Taken Upon Anniversary Of Pershing's Birth

"Our Troops Behaved Splendidly," Says
Commander in Describing Completely Successful Attack.

BY GENERAL JOHN J. PERSHING.

(Copyright, 1931, in all countries by The North American Newspaper Alliance—World rights reserved, including the Scandinavian. Reproduction in whole or in part prohibited.)
CHAPTER LXV.

"The first army attacked yesterday, and the reduction of the St. Mihiel salient is complete," reads my diary of September 13, written at Ligny-en-Barrois.

"Our troops behaved splendidly. The secretary of war visited two corps headquarters; returned to Ligny much delighted at our success.

"Petain and I went to the town of St. Mihiel today and were warmly greeted by the people. This is my birthday, and a very happy one."

The attack of the infantry on the southern face of the St. Mihiel salient started at 5 in the morning, and before that I went with several staff officers to old Fort Giroville, situated on a commanding height overlooking the battlefield from the south. The secondary attack on the west was launched at 8 a. m. as an element of surprise and in order to give more time for artillery preparation there.

A drizzling fog, and mist prevented us from getting a clear view, but the progress of our troops could be followed by the barrage which preceded them. Notwithstanding a heavy rain-fall the night of September 11-12, the weather gave us an advantage, as the mist partly screened our advance from the enemy.

There was a chill breeze blowing and its direction was such that no sound of firing could be heard from the artillery in our immediate front, although the more distant artillery bombardment on the western face was heard distinctly.

The sky over the battlefield, both before and after dawn, aflame with exploding shells, star signals, burning supply dumps and villages, presented a scene at once picturesque and terrible.

The exultation in our minds that here, at last, after 17 months of effort, an American army was fighting under its own flag, was tempered by the realization of the sacrifice of life on both sides, and yet fate had willed it thus and we must carry through. Confidence in our troops dispelled every doubt of ultimate victory.

As we returned from Giroville groups of prisoners were already being marched to our stockades in the rear. About 9 o'clock reports began to come into army headquarters at Ligny from all portions of the 25-mile front that everything was going well, with losses light.

Mr. Baker returned from his observation point near the battlefield much elated over the success of the troops. He had been a witness to the first effort of an American army and it was a proud day for him to feel that as secretary of war his directing hand had led to such results. He took much pleasure in going about to all parts of the army, and scorned being treated as a guest.

Thanks to the thorough preparation beforehand, the wire entanglements were more easily overcome than we had expected.

Trained teams of pioneers and engineers, with bangalore torpedoes, wire cutters and axes, assisted in opening gaps in the masses of barbed wire covering the German positions. The leading troops themselves carried along rolls of chicken wire, which was thrown across entanglements here and flanks of our successful penetrations, but made only small advances.

Upon the request of General E. J. Blumhardt, commanding the French second colonial corps, a regiment of the eighth division (Cronkette), in reserve, was sent to his assistance.

On the afternoon of the twelfth, learning that the roads leading out of the salient between the two armies were filled with retreating enemy troops, with their trains and artillery, I gave orders to the commanders of the fourth and fifth corps to push forward without delay.

Using the telephone myself, I directed the commander of the fifth corps to send at least one regiment of the twenty-sixth division toward Vigneulles with all possible speed.

That evening, a strong force from the fifty-first brigade pushed boldly forward and reached Vigneulles at 2:15 a. m. the thirteenth. It immediately made dispositions that effectively closed the roads leading out of the salient west of that point. In the fourth corps the second brigade of the first division advanced in force down of the thirteenth, its leading elements reaching Vigneulles by 6 a. m. The salient was closed and our troops were masters of the field.

Could Have Passed Hindenburg Line.

The troops continued to advance on the thirteenth, when the line was established approximately along the final objectives set for this offensive.

In view of the favorable situation created just west of the Moselle river by our successes farther to the left, a limited attack was made on that part of the front by elements of the eighty-second and nineteenth divisions, with good results.

During the night our troops all along the line were engaged in organizing their new positions for defense, preparatory to the withdrawal of the divisions and corps troops for participation in the Meuse-Argonne battle. September 14, 15 and 16 local operations continued, consisting of better ground for defensive purposes. Beginning the 13th several counter attacks were repulsed. The line as finally established was: Haumont-Fresnes-en-Woevre-Doncourt-Jaulny-Vandieres.

Reports received the thirteenth and fourteenth indicated that the enemy was retreating in considerable disorder. Without doubt an immediate continuation of the advance would have carried us well beyond the Hindenburg line and possibly into Metz, and the temptation to press on was very great. But we would probably have become deeply involved and delayed the greater Meuse-Argonne operation, to which we were wholly committed.

During the fighting from September 12 to 16, the German 125th, 8th Landwehr, 88th and 28th divisions reinforced the enemy's line and several other divisions arrived in reserve positions. September 16, in front of the first army, there were 10 German divisions and two brigades in line, and seven divisions in reserve.

Nearly 16,000 prisoners were taken and some 450 enemy guns had fallen into our hands. Our casualties numbered about 7,000. As the enemy retreated he set fire to many large supply dumps and several villages. The few remaining French inhabitants who found themselves within our lines were overjoyed to be released from the domination of the enemy, but many were left destitute by the burning of their homes at the very moment of deliverance.

On the thirteenth, General Petain came by my headquarters and we went together to St. Mihiel, where the people, including children carrying French flags, gave us a welcome which may well be imagined when one realizes that they had been held as prisoners of war for four years, though always within sight of the French lines. They had heard only such vague reports of the war as their captors cared to furnish them, which were mainly accounts of German successes.

The people were assembled at the hotel de ville, where we talked with the assistant mayor. He told us that in their retreat the Germans had taken away all the Frenchmen between 16 and 45. Fortunately the flight was so rapid that these prisoners were abandoned after a 10-mile march, and returned to St. Mihiel the following day. The assistant mayor said the Germans had treated the inhabitants well, but he criticized the conduct of a few of his countrymen, at which Petain kindly remarked that we should not be too severe in our judgment under the circumstances.

All Jubilant Over Victory.

On my visit to several corps and division headquarters the following day I found all jubilant over the victory and overflowing with incidents of the fighting, reciting many cases of individual heroism and gallantry. The Second division (Lejeune) and the Eighty-ninth (Wright) both claimed the honor of capturing Thiaucourt. In assigning objectives, while that village was included in the sector of the Second division, the town was to be taken by the Eighty-ninth should the result was a keen rivalry between these divisions as to which should have the honor.

Both units were equally insistent in upholding their claims, and I never undertook to decide the question. Distinctions in achievement among the attacking units on the southern face could not be made with any assurance, as all had done more than expected. It is never difficult to discover the attitude of a commander, as it is almost certain to be reflected in his unit. If the commander lacks aggressiveness, it is disloyal there will be grumbling and criticism of orders from higher authority among his officers and men. If he is aggressive and loyal his command will show it.

I recall one incident which illustrates the point. In conversation with one division commander he was asked the opinion of his unit, to which he replied that the men were very tired. Whereupon I remarked that there could be no reason for that, as they had been in the line only a short time, and I added with some emphasis that it was probably the division commander who was tired.

We had reserved his division lost its cohesion in battle and became much disorganized and he was relieved. Another commander was appointed who was tireless and efficient, and under him the division served with exceptional distinction.

The reduction of the St. Mihiel salient completed the first task of the American army. Its elimination freed the Paris-Nancy rail communications and the roads that paralleled the Meuse north from St. Mihiel. These at once became available for our use in the greater offensive to be undertaken immediately.

We had reserved to France 200 square miles of territory and had placed our army in a favorable situation for further operations. The new American position in the Woerth, almost within reach of Metz, now stood as a threat against the great fortress on the Moselle that defended Germany on that part of the front.

I was somewhat familiar with the strength of the fortifications, having visited Metz and the surrounding country, including the battlefield of 1870, some years before, little dreaming, however, that one day an American army would be so near and so eager to measure swords with the defenders.

This striking victory completely demonstrated the wisdom of building up a distinct American army.

No armistice could overcome the depressing effect on the enemy's morale of the fact that a new adversary had been able to put a formidable army into the field against him, which, in its first offensive, could win such an important engagement.

This result, after nearly a year and a half of working and waiting, must have tremendously heartened our people at home, as it gave them a tangible reason to believe our contribution to the war would be the deciding factor. It inspired our troops with unlimited confidence, which was to stand them in good stead against weary days and nights of battle later on.

The St. Mihiel victory probably did more than any single operation of the war to encourage the tired Allies. After the years of doubt and despair, of suffering and loss, it brought them assurance of the final defeat of an enemy whose armies had seemed well-nigh invincible. The French people of all classes were loud in their praise of the Americans.

Constitutions Pour In.

Many were the messages of congratulation that poured into the First Army headquarters from all sources, some of which are quoted:

From Marshal Foch:

The First American army, under your command, on this first day has won a magnificent victory by a maneuver as skillfully prepared as it was valiantly executed. I extend to you as well as to the officers and to the troops under your command my warmest congratulations.

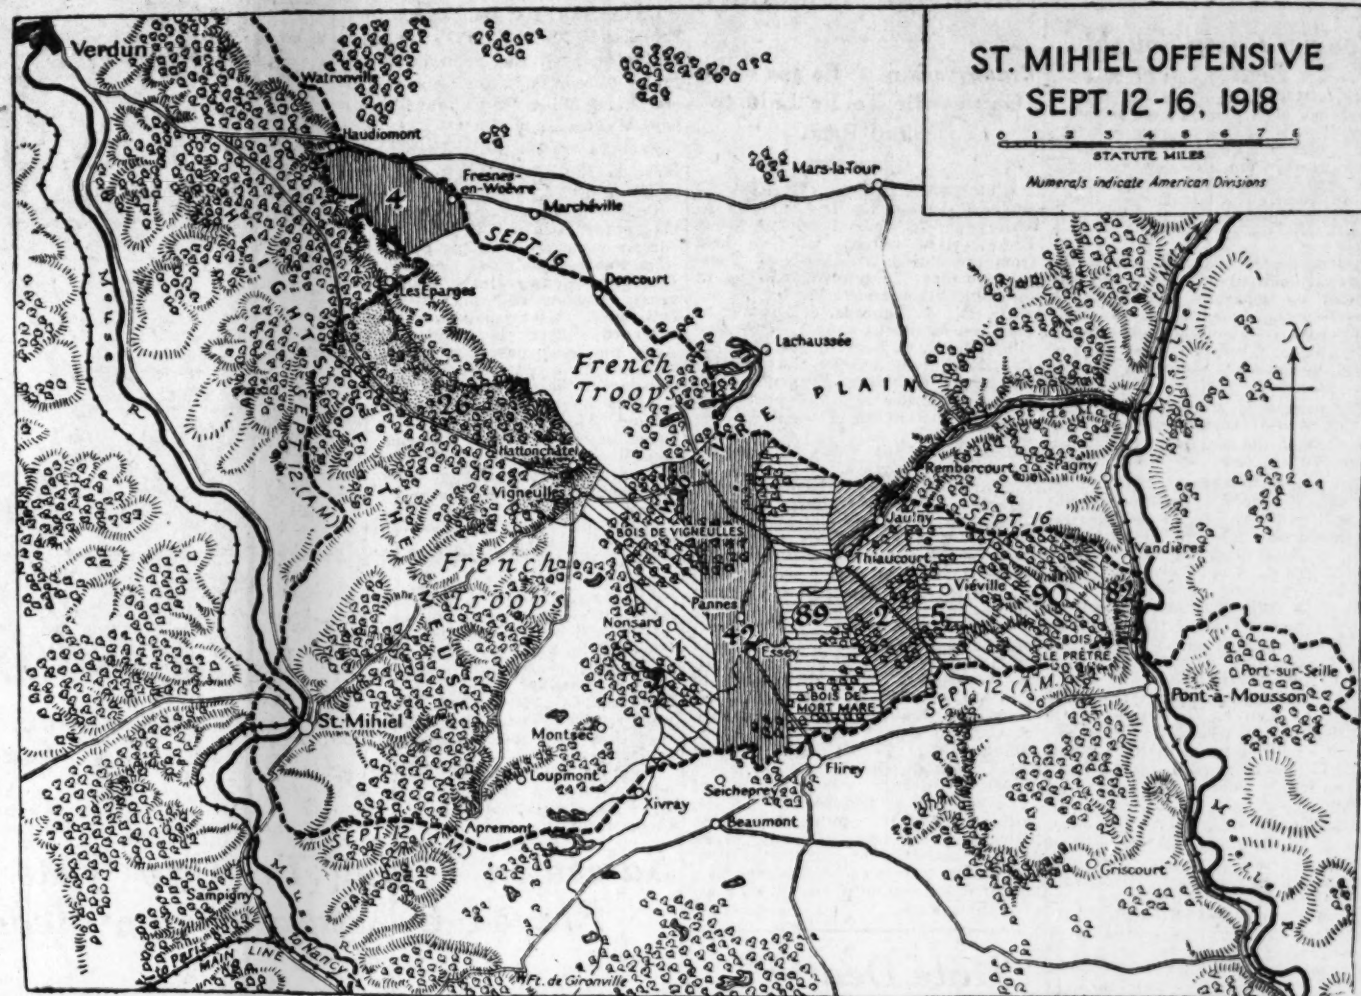

From Marshal Haig:

All ranks of the British armies in France welcome with unbounded admiration and pleasure the victory which has attended the initial offensive of the great American army under your personal command. I beg you to accept and to convey to all ranks the best congratulations and those of all ranks of the British under my command.

From General Harbord:

FEDERAL OFFICIAL SHOOT WIFE, SELF

Interior Department Employee Dead, Wife Seriously Injured, After Suicide Pact.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP)—Responding to pleas of his wife that he not die alone, William H. Von Bayer, Indian bureau official, today shot her before killing himself with a pistol.

Police broke into their fashionable Chevy Chase circle apartment and found Von Bayer dead and his wife with a bullet wound in her back. She was in a serious condition.

The woman told police her husband's health had been bad and he had informed her this morning he intended to kill himself. She said they talked for several hours and she tried to dissuade him.

Failing in that she said she told him: "If you must kill yourself, kill me too."

Before carrying out the compact, they wrote checks covering all their debts. The checks were found on the piano.

Mrs. Von Bayer was clad in negligee and her husband in pajamas and dressing gown. Both were about 50 years old. They had no children.

Von Bayer was a former foreman of the Indian bureau and his wife was known locally as a musician.

STATE ASSEMBLY TO OVERRIDE VETO, LEADERS PREDICT

for as much as $3,400,000 for them if the assembly authorized the sale. Only one motion of the veto message was made in either house, that of Representative Marion Allen, of Baldwin, who asked that the bill be passed notwithstanding the action of the governor of Georgia.

This motion was left pending when the house voted to adjourn and the veto will be the first order of business in the house today.

Agreeing, by a slim margin, to the house amendment to the budget bill, which struck out a provision giving the governor authority to place all funds in the general treasury and allocate them, the senate refused to concur in 11 house amendments to the Myrick bus bill and this measure will be returned to the house for further consideration today.

The text of the Hardman veto on the Battle-Alton discount bill follows: "I herewith return House Bill No. VII, providing for the sale of the rentals of the Western & Atlantic railroad for a period of ten years from January 1, 1930, to January 1, 1940, without interest."

"I regret that I am unable to agree with the members of the general assembly who voted for the passage of this bill. When the Western & Atlantic railroad rentals were first sold in 1921 and again 1926 the income of the state was much less and the burden of taxation on the people were far less onerous than today. At the time of the previous sales of these rentals, it was not necessary for the state to pay interest for five years in advance before repayment of any of the principal as required under the terms of this bill.

"Let me call your attention to the Acts of 1923, pages 42 and 43. When the gasoline tax was increased by this act from one cent to three cents per gallon, it was provided that 'one-third of the entire fund shall be credited to the general fund for the purpose of supplying the deficiency in the state treasury arising out of the discount of the rentals of the Western & Atlantic railroad as provided by the act of 1921.' This act was carried out and the funds were paid to the treasury accordingly. The one-cent per gallon gas tax was placed in the general treasury to replace the $540,000 annually diverted therefrom by the W. & A. discount act of 1921. These funds placed in the general treasury to replace the W. & A. income from 1921 to 1927 totaled $4,454,404.81. Thus, it can be clearly seen that the proposals of this bill cannot be favorably compared with legislation providing for previous sales.

No Guarantee of Sale. "There is no guarantee that these rentals can be sold. The most favorable suggestion that has been made by the advocates of this bill will require the sacrifice of more than $2,000,000 in interest to make available $3,500,000. The loss to the taxpayers of this state in interest paid, is in my judgment, far greater than we can justify under present conditions. The sale of these rentals for the period provided for in this bill will take from the state treasury $5,400,000, which if replaced, must be done by the levy of additional burdens upon the people.

"Under the terms of this bill, the governor can only apply the net proceeds derived to the obligations of the state's indebtedness incurred under appropriations for 1928-29-30, and he cannot apply any of the proceeds to the 1931 maintenance appropriations. On March 9, 1931, Monday, of last week, the governor borrowed $400,000 as provided by the constitution to supply the deficiency in the treasury. The larger portion of this amount will be paid to the state sanitarium and Alto to relieve suffering humanity. This will enable the state sanitarium to open its new building, which will be done on March 19 and will make room for the 140 insane people now crowded in jails throughout our state. The amount going to Alto will enable them to put into operation 60 beds that are now idle. This will relieve from their homes a large number of tubercular patients now on the waiting list.

"This extraordinary session of the general assembly was called to relieve the present emergency caused by a temporary deficit in the state treasury. It is my firm conviction that it is neither necessary nor proper for the state to sacrifice its valuable property and its future income nor to increase the burdens of taxation upon its citizens to relieve this emergency. The total income of the state amounting to $31,346,801 a year is far greater than ever before in our history. This sum is large enough and in my judgment, if it is equitably and justly distributed, every interest supported by our state will be properly cared for and our state government in its entirety will operate upon a sound basis.

"For the reasons stated, doing which I believe to be my duty, I herewith veto this bill (House Bill No. VII) and therefore, respectfully return it to you without executive approval.

"This March 16, 1931.

"L. G. HARDMAN, Governor."

Bus Bill Almost Tabled. The house almost tabled the bill to hike the taxes on motor carriers, a tie vote resulting on Representative Dykes' motion to kill the bill and all amendments. Speaker Russell broke the tie and voted against the motion.

A joint resolution urging President Hoover to appoint a man from one of the southeastern states to fill the vacancy on the federal farm board created by the elevation of James C. Stone, tobacco representative, to the chairmanship in place of Alexander Legge, resigned, was approved by the house.

The senate finance committee heard Albert Howell, representing tobacco manufacturers, in opposition to the new cigar and cigarette tax bill but postponed consideration on it. The bill provides that tax stamps be affixed by jobbers and wholesalers instead of by retailers, as under the existing law.

Auto Thief Carrying Many Disease Germs. CHICAGO, March 16.—(AP)—The police were searching today for an automobile thief believed by them to be running a stolen car containing enough typhoid fever and small-pox germs to start an epidemic of either disease.

The germs were in phials which Dr. Edwin Reynolds, of Berwyn, a suburb, was taking to his office when the motor car was stolen.

Western and Atlantic Rentals Discount Bill Patterned After 1921 and 1926 Legislation

The bill to authorize Governor Hardman to sell Western & Atlantic railroad rentals for a period of ten years and apply the proceeds, estimated at $3,450,000, to the relief of the charitable institutions and common schools, is patterned after similar legislation approved in 1921 and 1926.

Introduced on January 7, the day after the special session was convened, the bill passed the house by a vote of 146 to 50 and later passed the senate by a vote of 27 to 22. Voted Monday by Governor Hardman, it must now receive two-thirds of the votes in each house in order to become a law.

Text of Bill. "To be entitled an act to authorize the governor to set apart the rental of the Western & Atlantic railroad for a period of ten years beginning January 1, 1930, as a special fund, and to authorize the governor to draw warrants against special fund and to discount and sell the same, and to provide for placing the proceeds arising therefrom in the treasury, and to provide for the expenditures of the funds arising from the sale of said warrants, and for other purposes.

Section 1. "Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Georgia, that it be hereby enacted by the authority of the same, that the governor of the state is hereby authorized, fully empowered, and directed to immediately assign and set apart the rental arising from the existing lease of the Western & Atlantic railroad for a period of ten years beginning January 1, 1930, as a special fund to be used exclusively for the purpose of paying warrants drawn against the same as hereinafter provided.

Section 2. "Be it further enacted, that in order to enable the state to pay the unpaid appropriations heretofore made by the general assembly, the governor is hereby authorized, empowered and directed to draw his warrant or warrants against the special fund created by Section 1 of this act, so held as a special fund in the treasury, for the purpose of paying and discharging, in so far as the entire sum or sums received from the sale of said warrants or warrants will permit, said unpaid appropriations; and the governor is further authorized, empowered and directed to discount and sell said warrant or warrants so drawn against said special fund, and to place the proceeds arising therefrom in the treasury for the sole purpose of meeting and discharging in so far as the entire sum or sums received from the sale of said warrants or warrants will permit, said unpaid appropriations; provided, however, that the governor shall not discount and sell said warrant or warrants unless the total sum received from said sale and discount amounts to at least three million two hundred thousand dollars.

Section 3. "Be it further enacted, that the appropriations heretofore referred to are those made payable for the years 1928, 1929 and 1930, including the payment of pensions or annuities on the acts of the extraordinary session of 1931, and that the governor shall, out of said fund or funds made available under this act, pay said unpaid appropriations pro rata.

Section 4. "Be it further enacted, that all laws and parts of laws in conflict with this act, be, and the same are hereby repealed."

Spanish Trial of 77 For Rebellion Ends. JACA, Huesca, Spain, March 16.—(AP)—The court-martial trial of the 77 military men accused of taking part in the abortive revolution attempt of last December came to an end today with the belief prevalent that death sentences would not be imposed by the court.

Immediately after the closing of the trial the council went into secret session to fix the sentences. Their decisions will be sent to Fernandez Heredia, captain and military aide, who is expected to publish them Wednesday.

Dies in Courtroom. NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 16.—(AP)—J. T. Jones, 75, a retired farmer, dropped dead in the circuit courtroom today, when he raised his hand to be sworn in as a witness in a lawsuit. Death was attributed to a heart attack.

Beginning Wednesday night with departure from here, the ten-day trip contemplates only the two stops by the newly modernized battleship. It will be the first vacation President Hoover has taken in more than a year.

He will leave Washington by train late Wednesday night, probably arriving at Old Point Comfort in time to go aboard the ship for breakfast.

Others who will make the trip include: Lawrence Richey, one of the president's secretaries; Captain Joel Boone, White House physician; Colonel Campbell Hodges, military aide; and Captain Russell Train, naval aide.

Mrs. Hoover will forego the trip to the Caribbean and go to America, N. C., to visit her son, Herbert Hoover, Jr., who is recovering from illness.

Present plans for the president's trip call for a two-day stop in Porto Rico. He will confer with Governor Theodore Roosevelt on administrative problems and take a motor trip across the island to the little town of Ponce.

The 80-mile run from Porto Rico to the Virgin Islands probably will be made at night and the following day will be devoted to study of affairs there and conferences with Paul M. Pearson, the newly appointed civil governor.

Except for the conferences with the two governors, the trip will be devoted exclusively to rest and recreation.

AGRESS TELLS SECRET Tells How to Darken Gray Hair With a Home-Made Mixture

Joicy Williams, the well-known American actress, recently made the following statement about gray hair, and how to darken it, with a home-made mixture:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will gradually darken gray, streaked or faded hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of glycerine, a small box of Barbo Compound, and 1-4 ounce of glycerine.

"These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off."—(adv.)

LABOR CABINET IS BEATEN AGAIN

MacDonald, However, Refuses To Resign After Sixth Defeat.

LONDON, March 16.—(AP)—Sir John Simon, icy calm in a wildly excited house, tonight led ten other liberals into the opposition lobby at a division on a clause of the electoral reform bill, and Ramsay MacDonald's government was defeated by four votes.

Simon is the man who warned the government not long ago that he would vote as his conscience dictated regardless of party tactics. A clause abolishing university constituencies cost 246 to 242.

Thunderous shouts of "resign, resign," came from the conservative benches, but Ramsay MacDonald did not resign.

It never had been seriously suggested that the government would step out if it were defeated on this issue and any immediate sensational developments appeared unlikely although the defeat adds a new complexity to the already chaotic political situation and its ultimate effects may be of considerable importance.

The immediate problem is to decide whether to proceed with the bill. The conservatives regard the measure, the chief provision of which is creation of the alternative vote system, as a bid by the laborites for liberal support in the trades disputes bill.

But now that the liberals have virtually killed the trades disputes measure in committee, and since eleven of them voted against the government tonight, it was thought probable that the whole electoral reform bill would be adopted.

David Lloyd George and the main body of the liberals were with the government in tonight's division.

Tonight's defeat was the sixth the labor government has suffered since it took office. The largest majority against the administration was 32 on the education bill in January. All of the others have been very small.

GIRL, 21, HEARS STATE BUILD MURDER CHARGE

SALT LAKE CITY, March 16.—(AP)—The state of Utah this afternoon started narration of the story by which it seeks to send Jean Dayle, 21-year-old cabaret entertainer, to face a firing squad or a hangman's noose for the murder of Sam Frank, elderly jewelry auctioneer of Memphis, Tennessee.

A jury—all but four of the members past 50 years of age and four others about the age of the slain southerner—was completed late this afternoon. The jurors were named after a searching examination for three days into family connections, religious convictions, race prejudice and willingness to inflict the death penalty for murder.

The jurors were told Frank was slain by the defendant through the use of a sedative drug, a blow from a liquor bottle, which fractured his skull, and a woman's silk stocking cramped into his mouth so as to cause strangulation.

Jewelry he was known to have possessed, including an 11-karat diamond, was missing from the room.

An indication was made that the state may attempt to introduce a purported confession that the defendant unwittingly killed Frank in an attempt to rob him. This was barred from the preliminary hearing on the ground it was obtained by a promise that the woman's identity would be kept from her mother.

JAMES B. ASWELL DIES AT CAPITAL

Louisianan, Member of House, Succumbs Suddenly to Heart Attack.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP)—Representative James B. Aswell, senior member of Louisiana's democratic house delegation, died early today from heart disease.

Death came at 2:15 a. m., a few hours before he planned to leave for his home to spend the summer. He had been in good health.

Dr. Aswell, an educator before his election to the house 18 years ago, was 62 years old and had been re-elected to the next congress.

He was the ranking democratic member of the house agriculture committee and would have become committee chairman if his party organized the next house.

The Louisianan gained prominence in the special session called by President Hoover by supporting the administration in smoothing the path for the farm relief act creating the farm board. He endorsed this bill both in committee and on the floor of the house.

In the last session he sponsored the $60,000,000 drought loan bill introduced simultaneously in the senate by Assistant Republican Leader McNary of Oregon. He attacked administration efforts to reduce this fund to $25,000,000 and led the contest which resulted in a compromise on $45,000,000.

Farm relief legislation for cotton growers, agricultural extension work and forest preservation received particular attention during his house service.

Just before his death Dr. Aswell had closed his affairs at the capitol for a visit to areas in his district stricken by the drought in order to take a personal part in relief work.

In a statement issued in collaboration with Dr. George W. Calver, house physician, Senator Broussard, democrat, Louisiana, said:

"Mr. Aswell has been a consistent worker for the improvement of agriculture in the south. His greatest reputation in his own state, however, was that of an educator, having devoted many years of his life to that service."

Dr. Aswell at one time occupied the presidencies of the Louisiana Polytechnic Institute and the State Normal College. He served as chancellor of Mississippi University and was twice superintendent of public education in Louisiana.

He represented the eighth congressional district of his state, which contains a large colony of Acadians, who came from Nova Scotia to settle in Louisiana before the Revolution.

Sergeant-at-Arms Rodgers, of the house, said funeral arrangements will not be completed until Tuesday. Aswell is survived by his widow, a son, James B. Aswell, Jr., of New York city, and a daughter, Mrs. J. E. Cantrell, of Georgetown, Ky.

drifting sheets of ice in the open water until steamships located them.

Reports reaching here from Horse island at 5:30 p. m. were grave. Those of the survivors who had been landed, it was said, reported that some members of the crew went down with the ship. Others, wounded, died on the ice, and some, assisted ashore, were found to be in a dying condition.

It was hoped here that these reports might refer to a comparatively small number, and that a check up would show most of the crew saved, or with hope of rescue.

The Horse island reports, however, were that there was little prospect of the men on the ice getting ashore, and that they must await the chance, slender each hour, that a ship would pick them up as they drifted further and further from land in the swirling snow.

The work of rescue went on all day today, and at 4 p. m. eastern standard time, those on Horse island reported, survivors in twos and threes still were making their way to land.

There was no authentic report as to the cause of the disaster to the Viking. Two conjectures were made—first that the powder magazine had exploded, second that it was a boiler. Sealing ships such as the Viking carry powder in 25-pound kegs to blast themselves free of packing ice.

That was the story, as it was available here as night overtook day. With his crew of from 140 to 150, Captain Abram Keen, master of the Viking, set out into the ice fields on March 9, heading into White Bay. A message sent to friends of the three Americans was the last word. It was dispatched to New York, and said that the Viking was frozen in the ice. It added that sealing would begin March 15.

The Americans of its crew—Friswell, Sargent and Penrod, are gentlemen adventurers. Friswell himself was fired with enthusiasm for the frozen north when he read the book "Vikings of the Ice Fields," in 1928. He shipped before the war to try to live the book himself. A year ago he financed and managed a cruise to the sealing fields with Captain Bob Bartlett, Penry's north pole skipper. He is a nephew of Governor Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, and is said to be related to the late Andrew Carnegie. He is 26.

Horse island, where the disaster occurred and tonight's tragedy was enacted, is known as St. Barbe island. Little more than a dot on the maps, it lies perhaps 30 miles off the mainland of Newfoundland, on the north side. There is a tiny intervening island between it and the mainland.

The German crew who made the first westward airplane flight across the Atlantic to Greenland island must have passed almost over it, if not over it.

TRAFFIC ARRESTS. Sunday's arrests for alleged violations of the city traffic ordinance, were as follows: Henry Benson, 498 Fair street, failure to stop at stop sign.

Judge Seabury and his staff began their private investigation, which will be followed by public hearings. As they did so, the city affairs committee was drawing up the final draft of a petition which the Rev. It became known today that during the week-end from March 7-9 somebody had filed the files of the bureau of securities where documents containing references to stock sales activities of Vivian Gordon, are kept. The Gordon papers, however, were in a safe. Nothing was taken from the files.

SCORES FEARED KILLED BY BLAST OF SEALING BOAT

drift ice would go around Cape St. John during the night, and out into the mouth of Notre Dame bay. There the ice is loose and practically open water. The sheet ice upon which the sealers are floating would be in danger of breaking up in the heavy swell that will be encountered south of St. John's cape.

The prospects of rescue, according to those at the scene, were depressingly slim unless a change of wind caused revision of this forecast.

Drifting Out to Death. Here is one picture of the situation at dusk as it was realized here at 5 p. m. from Horse island:

"Watchers on the shore at the south headland can see small groups of the shipwrecked men struggling over loose, drifting ice toward shore."

"Occasionally a man falls as if exhausted and disappears on the surface of the ice or into the water."

"The islanders are helpless, as their frail boats are unable to contend with the drifting ice."

The weather is cold, but not freezing as the sun sinks. A more hopeful picture is drawn here than the bare facts of the Horse island reports would indicate. Of two rescue ships which left today for the scene, the Franklin should reach Horse island tomorrow forenoon, if the ice does not bar it. The Sagona may reach there at 3 p. m. tomorrow. Both ships will search for drifting men as they approach the island, and it is hoped here, with fair weather many may be picked up.

34 Believed Killed. There was no authentic report as to the calculation of saved, wounded and missing.

The radio station at Horse island reported 34 men were believed to have been killed in the original explosion, that many were horribly injured, and that others were afloat on the ice, drifting fast from hope of help from shore.

Rescue work was proceeding tonight by all available means. Fishermen went out over the four miles of pack ice off shore in the efficient little Labrador komatiks, or sleds which can be used to shove over ice floes and to bridge leads between them.

The situation generally was one to rate among the epics of this icebound land.

Aside from the men drifting without food on the ice floes, amid snow flurries which began this afternoon, the injured were burned, some were without shoes or legs, some had broken spines—and all were without medical treatment.

Fishermen Rescue Many. Not until the Sagona arrives at Horse island, 225 miles northwest of St. John by air line—a day's steaming—will there be doctors or nurses, or medical supplies.

The radio station at Horse island reported that some of the most terribly injured were left, perforce, to die on the ice while the brave fishermen-rescuers devoted themselves to those who had a chance to live if they reached shore. They were pictured as drifting out with the uninjured, to die, it was feared, during the night.

The situation on Horse island was not much better. The survivors landed exhausted and without food. There was not sufficient food on the island to take care of more than the bare requirements of the little populace.

Two hundred and twenty-five miles, by the route it must take around Cape St. John and across White bay, separated the government ship Sagona and the island this evening. The ship must fight ice and wind, and may be held up by the strong ice barrier. It was feared here that there will be a serious food shortage unless the ship can make good time.

Off Shore Wind. From Lascie, a fishing hamlet between Cape St. John and Partridge Point, 10 miles south of the scene of the wreck, came reports tonight of a strong northwest wind. The four-mile ice barrier was packed hard off shore, it was said. Fishermen were unable to sight the wreck of the Viking or the survivors of its crew. The fishermen had komatiks and boats ready to put over the ice with food in the event survivors were sighted.

The fishermen said the northwest wind was carrying the loose ice off shore and southward around Cape St. John. After that they reported the survivors probably would have to depend for their lives on clinging to the

Major Parties Are Faced With 2 Unusual Outbreaks

Johnson Warns Republicans That Something Is Wrong; Ayres Asks Repudiation of Raskob Liquor Plan.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(P)—Fresh outbreaks against the leadership of both the republican and democratic organizations were heard today on Capitol Hill.

Senator Johnson, republican, California, warned the republican critics of the recent conference of political independents that "something is radically wrong somewhere." He called attention to the party reverses in the last election.

The Californian added that if the republicans desired to put party principles above "personality" that now was an opportunity "for the exercise of their vaunted political talents."

At the same time, Representative Ayres, veteran Kansas democrat, issued a statement calling for a repudiation of the plan of Chairman Raskob for a state liquor control plank in the democratic platform.

Deploping a division of the democratic platform at this time, Ayres insisted that this issue be disregarded in the platform and added:

"If it becomes necessary to repudiate such leadership prevent this tragedy, it should be done, for this is the time when the democratic party must establish a new economic system as its dominant policy."

The Johnson statement was promptly interpreted as a suggestion for another republican presidential candidate than President Hoover.

"The republicans in command of the party machinery may jibe and jeer," said Johnson, "but let them take stock of the republican party. Less than six months have passed since New York was lost to republicans by three-quarters of a million votes, and Illinois by a like number; since Massachusetts and Ohio, the cradle of republican presidents, repudiated republican rule; since Kansas, the rock-ribbed Gibraltar of the republican party, defeated even the acknowledged spokesman of the president."

"If political parties are to be considered, let my republican brethren reflect that something is radically wrong somewhere. Somebody should ascertain what it is."

"And recent events demonstrate there is a real occasion and necessity for study, reflection and conference of those who so loudly proclaim and pretend a deep and abiding affection for the republican party; and ample opportunity, if their prime consideration is party and principle instead of personality, for the exercise of their vaunted political talents."

While lauding the purpose and spirit of the progressive conference in which he did not participate, Senator Johnson did not give whole-hearted approval to all its conclusions. With some of its sentiments he said he did not agree "but public consideration, study and discussion, constitute the contribution and value of the conference."

Representative Ayres left the door open for the nomination of either a wet or dry as head of the ticket, expressing the view that "the president of the United States has no more to say about what shall be the policy of the country, whether wet or dry, whether the prohibition amendment shall be retained, modified or repealed, than any private citizen." He said prohibition was a purely congressional problem.

Asserting that both political parties are divided on prohibition, Ayres advised the democrats on the grounds of political expediency to avoid any declaration on the subject at all. He said prohibition is a moral and social problem.

YOUTH SOUGHT AFTER WIDOW DISAPPEARS

BREVARD, N. C., March 16.—(P)—While a seemingly blood-stained sack found in her locked home was being examined by chemists, officers today sought Mrs. Norma Shipman, 40-year-old widow, mysteriously missing here and two youths who left Brevard after she disappeared.

Sheriff Ed Patton was awaiting the chemist's report on whether stains are blood. The men sought are Joe Bradley, 21, who lived at Mrs. Shipman's home, and "Happy" Brown, 20.

Neighbors of the wealthy widow said she had not been here since March 1 when she went to Seneca, S. C., with Bradley and Brown. They quoted the youths as saying upon their return without Mrs. Shipman that she had gone to St. Petersburg, Fla., to visit a brother, C. B. Glazener. The brother reported today that she had not been there since last month.

A week after the trip to South Carolina, Bradley and Brown left Brevard in two of Mrs. Shipman's automobiles.

When her friends here became suspicious of her long absence, Patton went to the home and made an investigation. He said silverware and other valuables had been removed from it and that a stained sack was in the cellar.

The officer related that Mrs. Shipman was believed to keep large sums of money in her home and was reported to have had $7,000 hidden there before she disappeared.

Bradley looked after some of Mrs. Shipman's business affairs. A restaurant she owned closed here when she left town. He apparently took the keys to it with him.

Mrs. Shipman's husband, Sheriff W. G. Shipman, killed himself here last August.

OUTSTED GOVERNOR IN MAYORALTY RACE

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., March 16.—(P)—J. C. (Jack) Walton, impeached and ousted as governor of Oklahoma in 1923, will seek a political comeback in tomorrow's municipal primary as a candidate for his old job of mayor of this city.

Walton, now under federal indictment on a mail fraud charge in connection with an oil promotion venture, is opposed by a field of five other candidates. The race is non-partisan. The two high candidates in tomorrow's election will compete in the general election April 17.

Stray Hair May Lead To Slayer of Child

SAN DIEGO, Cal., March 16.—(P)—Stray hairs found with the body of Virginia Brooks, 10-year-old school girl, assumed new importance today in the search for her fiendish slayer.

Two suspects were held and a light truck in the bed of which several human hairs were discovered was being examined.

"The value of an adult hair found in Virginia's left hand draws in importance all other fragmentary evidence," said Police Chemist Rex Welch, of Los Angeles. "I will not be surprised if the guilty person is caught through it alone."

Raskob for a state liquor control plank in the democratic platform.

Deploping a division of the democratic platform at this time, Ayres insisted that this issue be disregarded in the platform and added:

"If it becomes necessary to repudiate such leadership prevent this tragedy, it should be done, for this is the time when the democratic party must establish a new economic system as its dominant policy."

The Johnson statement was promptly interpreted as a suggestion for another republican presidential candidate than President Hoover.

"The republicans in command of the party machinery may jibe and jeer," said Johnson, "but let them take stock of the republican party. Less than six months have passed since New York was lost to republicans by three-quarters of a million votes, and Illinois by a like number; since Massachusetts and Ohio, the cradle of republican presidents, repudiated republican rule; since Kansas, the rock-ribbed Gibraltar of the republican party, defeated even the acknowledged spokesman of the president."

"If political parties are to be considered, let my republican brethren reflect that something is radically wrong somewhere. Somebody should ascertain what it is."

"And recent events demonstrate there is a real occasion and necessity for study, reflection and conference of those who so loudly proclaim and pretend a deep and abiding affection for the republican party; and ample opportunity, if their prime consideration is party and principle instead of personality, for the exercise of their vaunted political talents."

While lauding the purpose and spirit of the progressive conference in which he did not participate, Senator Johnson did not give whole-hearted approval to all its conclusions. With some of its sentiments he said he did not agree "but public consideration, study and discussion, constitute the contribution and value of the conference."

Representative Ayres left the door open for the nomination of either a wet or dry as head of the ticket, expressing the view that "the president of the United States has no more to say about what shall be the policy of the country, whether wet or dry, whether the prohibition amendment shall be retained, modified or repealed, than any private citizen." He said prohibition was a purely congressional problem.

Asserting that both political parties are divided on prohibition, Ayres advised the democrats on the grounds of political expediency to avoid any declaration on the subject at all. He said prohibition is a moral and social problem.

YOUTH SOUGHT AFTER WIDOW DISAPPEARS

BREVARD, N. C., March 16.—(P)—While a seemingly blood-stained sack found in her locked home was being examined by chemists, officers today sought Mrs. Norma Shipman, 40-year-old widow, mysteriously missing here and two youths who left Brevard after she disappeared.

Sheriff Ed Patton was awaiting the chemist's report on whether stains are blood. The men sought are Joe Bradley, 21, who lived at Mrs. Shipman's home, and "Happy" Brown, 20.

Neighbors of the wealthy widow said she had not been here since March 1 when she went to Seneca, S. C., with Bradley and Brown. They quoted the youths as saying upon their return without Mrs. Shipman that she had gone to St. Petersburg, Fla., to visit a brother, C. B. Glazener. FLORIDANS SEEK RETAIL SALES TAX

Citizen's Requested Levy Effects General Merchandise in Gross.

TAMPA, Fla., March 16.—(P)—Resolutions were adopted here today by the Florida citizens finance and taxation committee asking the legislature to enact a general gross retail sales tax law next month and give the people the right to repeal it at a referendum next year, if they see fit.

"The tax would be imposed for two years as an emergency measure to finance the operation of the schools and lift all tax on real estate levied for school purposes."

The committee also recommended appointment of a committee by the legislature to consider refunding $500,000 of outstanding county, municipal and special district bonds by a long term state bond issue. This plan would require a constitutional amendment.

The state refunding bond issue plan, proposed by C. H. Overman, of Bland, would lump the enormous burden of all taxing districts, except drainage, pledge the credit of the state for the retirement of these bonds and prevent defaults by compelling the districts to meet their obligations under a lower rate of interest. The difference in the interest rates, Mr. Overman said, would be sufficient to amortize much of the principal over a period of 30 years.

Owner Slugged In Fight To Keep Car From Thieves

A small coupe was stolen by two neatly dressed young men shortly after 4 o'clock Monday afternoon, after a battle with the owner, Cleve Hicks, president of the Foster-Hicks Produce Company, of 237 Pryor street, that lasted through ten blocks of downtown Atlanta.

Hicks said that the young men stepped into his car in front of his place of business and as they started to drive away, he swung onto the spare tire, and crawled aboard. Then began a hectic battle in broad daylight that lasted for many blocks and attracted wide attention—but was not halted until after Hicks was slugged in the head.

One of the pair of thieves crawled outside to the running board and struck Hicks with a flashlight. The driver then halted the machine, stepped out and while the first bandit held Hicks, struck him in the head with a hilly. They then sped away, leaving their victim in the street, his blocks from his place of business. He was given treatment by a private physician.

Bright, Crisp Day Forecast For Atlanta

Another of those fine chilly mornings, followed by a warm day, is in prospect for Atlanta Tuesday, C. F. von Herrmann, United States meteorologist, said Monday in forecasting fair weather.

Temperatures will range from 36 or 38 degrees this morning to 50 or 57 degrees this afternoon, the weather man said. The day will seem warm by comparison by the night, although the maximum temperatures those March days are little below the usual level, Mr. von Herrmann said, adding that there has not been a reading above 70 degrees since last November.

Temperatures Monday began at 34 degrees and rose to the early 50s during the day. The forecast for this week calls for mostly fair weather, with a possibility of showers about Thursday. It will be warmer during the middle of the week and colder at the end, the weather man said.

The assassination took on an added significance today in view of the shooting of the governor, Ernest E. Egan, by a police sergeant whom he had called on the carpet in connection with alleged fascist activities.

First degree arson is punishable in this state by death. Five girls confessed to setting the fires and implicated the others.

DEALER NOT LIABLE FOR "JAKERALYSIS"

JACKSON, Miss., March 16.—(P)—A person paralyzed from drinking "pure Jamaica ginger" cannot recover damages from the dealer who sold the extract when both knew it was to be used as a beverage, the Mississippi supreme court held today in affirming a case from Washington county.

The court stated that the buyer and seller were "equally liable" and both had violated the prohibition law in the sale and purchase of the extract "since the bottle's label set out that it contained not over 33 per cent alcohol."

MRS. BILBO MAY RUN FOR STATE SECRETARY

JACKSON, Miss., March 16.—(P)—Mrs. Theodore G. Bilbo, wife of Mississippi's governor, announced today that she contemplated entering the race for secretary of state in the approaching state elections.

"No woman has ever been elected to a state position by the voters of Mississippi and I covet the honor of being the first to receive the confidence of the voters of my native state," said Mrs. Bilbo. "I am contemplating running for secretary of state and will shortly make a definite decision."

Atlanta's Hibernian Population Will Honor St. Patrick Today

The energetic old saint who drove the snakes out of Erin and performed other miracles more or less shrouded in the mists of antiquity, will not find Atlanta's Irish population backward in the matter of celebrating his legendary day, although no parades with brass bands and green banners have been scheduled for the occasion, it seems.

From time immemorial, the seventeenth of March has been known as St. Patrick's Day, and not to observe it would be an unheard-of breach: like forgetting Christmas itself or failing to blow off the lid on New Year's Eve.

And the exuberant nature of the St. Patrick's Day festival arises from the exuberance of the Irish temperament; for St. Patrick, whatever else he might have been, was first of all Irish, Irish at heart anyway, though there seems to be some doubt as to whether he was Irish in nationality.

The doubt, one hastens to add, is more or less apocryphal, and any allusion to it may end in blows if it is made in the wrong, that is, in Hibernian circles. At any rate the story goes that he was first of all a convert to Christianity and afterwards to become its first bishop entered the country in the year 380 A. D. as a slave. But a slave who was more civilized than his captors; a slave who brought with him some of the learning and dignity of ancient Rome.

The inference is that St. Patrick was captured and sold into slavery by the Goths and Vandals who sacked the eternal city after the dissolution of the empire. He remained in servitude for seven years till he was enjoined, in a dream, to go to the seashore 200 miles distant and to board a vessel he would find there. The legend goes that he found this vessel (which assuredly had not been placed there by accident) and that he embarked upon it for the land of his nativity.

Was this land which tradition has assigned to Brittany, a Roman or a Celtic province? You are treading on dangerous ground when you acknowledge that it might, just possibly, have been a Roman province. Forty-three years after his miraculous liberation, in 422 A. D., the good saint returned as the first bishop of Ireland, appointed by Pope Celestine.

He is accredited with many miracles, the most famous, of course, being the miracle of the serpents. According to the legend, St. Patrick climbed to the top of a tall mountain and stayed there for the duration Lent, praying and fasting. And then, girded with the armor of righteousness he descended, and all the snakes fled before him into the sea. But there was one snake that was left behind, the story goes, and every morning at a certain point on the Irish seaboard, a voice may be heard, calling and calling this delinquent to rejoin his comrades where they swim eternally in the green depths of the Irish sea.

The Knights of Columbus and Ladies' Auxiliary will pay tribute to the memory of St. Patrick at a banquet to be held at 8 o'clock tonight in the Biltmore hotel. J. J. Haverty will act as toastmaster and John J. Bradley, grand knight of the council, will deliver the welcoming address. Principal speakers will be Rabbi David Marx and Hughes Spaulding, lawyer.

A St. Patrick's Day bridge-supper, sponsored by the Kie Club, will be given at the Elk's Club at 6:30 o'clock tonight.

"This new medicine you call Lin-O-Nine banished all the soreness and wheezing out of my chest and all the whistling and cough went away and I breathe freely now and feel a different man. I sure does all you claim it will do," writes Richard H. Jacob. "I was always having bad coughs and colds. Choking spells and a whistling sound in my chest worried me—a sort of dull pain or feeling in the bottom of my chest. I can't tell you exactly what kind of symptoms they were or what my trouble was for no treatment or medicine I tried did me any good. I had gotten disgusted and gave up hope of ever getting rid of my trouble until I heard about Lin-O-Nine. I got my druggist to order some for me and as I said before it worked like magic for me. I recommend it to everybody troubled as I was," continued Mr. Jacob, a well known farmer, Route 3, Box 137, Victoria, Texas.

Thousands of men and women, especially elderly people, who are too weakened to respond to ordinary medicine, find Lin-O-Nine does the work and soon rids the system of wintry coughs and colds, builds a person up so they can withstand cold weather better. COUNTY SCHOOL ISSUE APPROVED AT MEETING

Approval of the proposed $500,000 county school bond issue and restoration of the 2-1-2 mill special school tax continued to gain strength Monday night when friends of the county school system, gathered at the E. P. Howell school, signed a petition now being circulated to have the ordinary call an election.

J. O. Perry, Jr., of Cook's district, presided at the meeting, which also was attended by many from Collins district. Jere Wells, county superintendent, presented the matter and speeches in favor of the project were made by A. H. Patton, of Cook's district; Judge Virlyn Moore, of Collins; and Walter Moore, of Collins. All were in favor of the bond issue.

The issue is to be used in completing the school building program, if passed. The restoration of the tax levy was made necessary, stated Mr. Wells, when the state supreme court recently voided an act of 1919 which imposed a 2-1-2 mills tax. The tax can only be restored by a vote of the people under a constitutional amendment of 1920, it was pointed out.

The petition must be signed by 25 per cent of the voters in the county before the election is to be called, it was stated, and though there are now 500 names to the petition, it will take 2,000. The petition will again be presented to a group of East Point, College Park and Hapeville citizens at a meeting to be held at Russell High, in East Point, at 8 o'clock tonight, it was announced by Superintendent Wells.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(P)—Secretary Stimson indicated today that the suggestions the United States would make with regard to the British-Franco-Italian naval accord would in no way hamper the completion of the negotiations.

He said there were no grounds for pessimism regarding the attitude of the United States toward the accord.

Another of her plays, "Tonight or Never," is now running in the Belasco theater in New York.

"The Love Duel" is a modern play, based on the lives of two well-known Europeans. Seats for all performances are now on sale at the Erlanger box office.

"THE BACHELOR FATHER," offering Marion Davies in a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production. Newsreel and short subjects.

Although "The Bachelor Father" is a well-known stage success, it might well have been written especially for Marion Davies, so well does it suit this comedienne's qualities. The screen version in sound, with Miss Davies in the stellar role of Tony Flagg, opened Monday for a week's run at Loew's Grand.

Always holdenish, never wholly womanish, Miss Davies has in her latest film a vehicle that cannot fail to please her admirers. "The Bachelor Father" is a thorough-going comedy with a romantic background that gives the rebellious tomboy chance to romp about as much or more than any other picture in which she has appeared.

The prospect of remodeling a willful, self-indulgent old bachelor, who has unlearned all the rules of the game, whether he wandered when young and fickle as a divine punishment for the original sin, into a fond and loving father, is one holding promise of abundant humor. Particularly is this assurance offered when Miss Davies, as one of the "brood of brats," as the bachelor father is accustomed to thinking of his offspring, is selected to do the molding.

The bachelor father, well done by Aubrey Smith, a knighted Englishman, accustomed to having his way and his whisky, is prompted by a momentary whim to assemble his three children of three different mothers and to fit them into his palatial estate. The fitting is not so easily accomplished but the endeavor provides many rollicking incidents. A typical instance: The newly arrived Tony Flagg, extra fresh from New York, after greeting in turn the butler and family doctor with affection, she thought each time she was showering upon her new-found father, dismisses the real Sir Basil, who makes an unexpected appearance returning from a fishing excursion, with a flippant, "No, we don't care for any fish today. Come back some other time."

However, the fitting is done, though mostly through trimming the wings of Sir Basil, and a real affection develops between the bachelor father and the children that outlasts the bonds of blood, thereby turning a threatened pathetic end into one of comic melodrama. —ERNEST RUBIN.

PARAMOUNT SHOWS "TWO-FOR-ONE" BILL

"THE ROYAL FAMILY OF BROADWAY," featuring Ina Claire, Henrietta Crossman and Mary Brian. Second attraction, "Sit Tight," featuring Winnie Lightner and Joe E. Brown. Also animated cartoon and newsreel.

The Paramount Monday was offering something new in the line of entertainment with a twin feature bill, that should appeal to all theatergoers in Atlanta, whether they be Scotch or not. The bargain bill of two-for-one is a snappy idea and both features offered are excellent.

"The Royal Family of Broadway," with Ina Claire, Henrietta Crossman and Mary Brian, is featured as number 1 on the program. Its story concerns the trials and tribulations of a famed stage family, which, despite even death, follow the showman's creed that "the show must go on." Through several generations the family keeps to the stage it loves, and its portrayal of the stage family away from the theater, shows an insight into the viewpoint of all true actors.

An animated cartoon picture with plenty of music and the newsreel round out the rest of the bill. The program all in all, is a little long, but that is not noticed unless one has a train to catch, or something. —RILEY MCKOY.

ATLANTANS PLAN OBSERVANCE OF ST. PATRICK'S DAY

K. of C. Banquet, Dance To Be Held at Biltmore

Atlantans will recall today the interesting tales from both history and folklore about the patron saint of Ireland, the missionary and founder of churches, whose symbol of the Trinity was the shamrock. Throughout the nation today this symbol will be worn, for the celebration of St. Patrick's Day is almost universal. Natives of the Emerald Isle and thousands of those who have inherited a love for this land of beautiful lakes across the sea will find inspiration for making merry in the name of the sainted gentleman who bequeathed his name to the seventeenth day of March, thereby marking it for his own and insuring a renewal each year of the love of Erin.

Plans have been laid for many varied affairs in celebration of the day and in observance of the traditions which surround the date. Hostesses take their cue for an interesting color scheme from the "wearing of the green," and florists everywhere adorn their windows with the modest shamrock.

Elaborate preparations have been made for a St. Patrick's Day banquet and dance to be given this evening at the Biltmore hotel. The house committee of the Knights of Columbus and the ladies' auxiliary are sponsoring the affair which will assemble a large throng of prominent Atlantans at 8 o'clock in the ballroom of the hotel. An interesting program has been prepared which includes a group of Irish songs to be rendered by Mrs. Earnest Trotti and William Maurer, accompanied by Miss Virginia Morris, who will also play a group of violin numbers. John J. Bradley, grand knight of the council, will make the welcoming address, and James J. Haverly will act as toastmaster at the banquet. Rabbi David Marx will make an address followed by Attorney Hughes Spalding. Rev. Father Perry, chaplain of the Knights of Columbus, will give the invocation.

Another event celebrating St. Patrick's Day will be the bridge-dinner given at the Elks' Club on Peachtree street this evening. All decorations will be suggestive of the day and special features of entertainment have been planned.

Mrs. Henry Jackson, of New York who is the fated guest of her sister Mrs. Robert F. Maddox at Woodhaven, will be central figure at the luncheon at which Mrs. John M. Stanton will be hostess today at her home on Andrew's drive.

A complimentary gesture to Miss Ethelind North, a lovely spring bride-elect, will be the bridge-ten at which Miss Marguerite Myers will be hostess. Another bride-elect to be honored today is Miss Eleanor Myers who will form the inspiration for Miss Lenora Shannon's bridge-supper.

I. O. O. F. Dance.

Atlanta Rebekah Lodge No. 62, I. O. O. F., will sponsor a dance in their hall, 431 1/2 Marietta street, Wednesday evening, March 18, at 8:30 o'clock. There will be round and square dances. The public is invited.

Miss Stryker Gives Short History of Needlework Guild

Members of the Atlanta Branch Needlework Guild entertained at tea Friday at the Atlanta Woman's Club in honor of Miss Maria Halsey Stryker, junior director of the Needlework Guild of America. Preceding the tea Miss Stryker extended greetings from the national president, Mrs. Preston, who was the former Mrs. Grover Cleveland.

In her talk upon junior work, Miss Stryker gave a brief history of the Needlework Guild as follows: "Almost 50 years ago Lady Wolverton, of Dorsetshire, England, had her sympathy aroused by the needs of a number of children in a mining camp near her estate; and she conceived the idea of making new, useful garments for these little ones. She enlisted the interest of her friends, and when dozens of garments were completed the queen of England heard of the work and she, too, has become interested. From that time the work in that country continued to grow.

"In that day," continued Miss Stryker, "it was not the custom of English newspapers to give any space to charitable notices; however because the queen was interested, a short notice of the activities of the Needlework Guild appeared in a London paper.

"It was several years later when Mrs. Alanson Hartpence, an American, learned of this charity and she brought the idea home to Philadelphia. Her niece, Laura Safford, now Mrs. John Wood Stewart, interested a few people of her Sunday school class and from that small beginning the American Needlework Guild was organized.

"The Needlework Guild now numbers over 9,000 members," Miss Stryker said, "and each year at the Thanksgiving season new, useful garments are sent to thousands of social agencies, and to hundreds of special cases. A donation each year of two or more new garments constitutes membership in the guild.

"There are four things to remember

College Belles and Visitors To Be Feted at Social Gaieties

When Misses Mary Meador Goldsmith, Mary Adair Howell and Louisa Shivers arrive Thursday morning from Mount Vernon Seminary they will be accompanied by two charming visitors, who will be honor guests at a number of social gaieties during the Easter season. Miss Louisa Shivers will have as her guest her roommate, Miss Eloise Wilmsen, of New York city, and on the evening of their arrival Mrs. L. L. Shivers will keep open house honoring her daughter and her visitor. No invitations have been issued, but friends of Miss Shivers will call and during the evening a popular dance orchestra will play the latest musical numbers. Mrs. Shivers will be assisted in entertaining by her daughter, Mrs. Richard Hardwick, and several friends of Miss Shivers.

On Saturday, March 21, Miss Judy King will entertain at a luncheon at her home on Ponce de Leon avenue, in honor of Miss Wilmsen, and March 25 Mrs. S. F. Boykin will compliment these attractive school girls.

Miss Louisa Shivers and her guest will be numbered among the college belles attending Emory little commencement the week-end of March 27, about the Needlework Guild," Miss Stryker continued. "It is non-sectarian. No matter where one attends church she may belong to the guild. It is universal, for garments are sent to everyone in need—mother, father and children. No matter where one lives, she may be a member; and it is ideal, for it supplies a change of new and attractive garments to those in need."

Miss Stryker urged the continued organization of junior groups to join the 26,000 juniors over the nation. She also urged the enrollment of boys in this work, saying that the Prince of Wales, the Duke of York and the two sons of Princess Mary all make contributions to this work in England; and that many Boy Scouts and some high school groups of boys of this country have a part in this work.

If you paid a lot more for your Easter shoes last year... even twice as much... do stop here first and see these styles at $5! We've never had such a spring style-show at our store... such a variety of really new things to show you... everything so smartly-correct with this year's suits and costumes.

And when you examine the soft fine leathers and feel the suave fit of our expensive lasts, you'll realize that these are indeed no "$5 shoes." The Nisley idea is to make a much more expensive shoe, and then by a country-wide selling plan in our more than fifty stores, keep the cost to you at $5. Right now at Easter time... with so many things to buy... here's a sensible way to save money, and make a great gain in good dressing!

Junior League Jottings

MRS. REGINALD FLEET, Editor

One hundred and eighty people attended the Junior League arts and interests exhibit at the High Museum of Art on Sunday afternoon. The gallery presented a charming sight. The exhibits were placed around the room, in cases and on the walls. The flower decorations added a springlike touch to the long room. The creative work of the members of the league, the examples of the hobbies of the members and the old books from the different collections were the centers of interested groups of people.

The judges for the exhibit were: Mrs. Harold Bush Brown, J. J. Harty and Lewis Skidmore, the director of the museum. They awarded the sweepstakes prize to Mrs. Preston Stevens, who had the largest number of creative efforts in the exhibit, oils, crayons, black and white sketches, mirror pictures and a decorated tray. The prize was two antique silver salt dishes.

The blue ribbon in the oil painting class was awarded to Mrs. William McKenzie for her portrait of her son, William McKenzie, Jr. The red ribbon was awarded to Mrs. Charles Nunnally for an oil flower painting.

A blue ribbon was awarded to the marionette exhibit consisting of a stage set and the marionettes for the "Uncle Remus" plays.

The blue ribbon in the needlework class was awarded to Mrs. William Warren, Jr., for a carriage robe and pillow. The red ribbon was awarded to Mrs. David Black for a carriage robe and pillow. Honorable mention was given to Mrs. Green Warren for a quilted carriage robe.

In the children's garment class, the blue ribbon was awarded to Mrs. Sherwood Hunt for a child's coat. The red ribbon in this class was awarded to Mrs. Claude McGinnis for a baby dress. A baby coat made by Mrs. William Warren was given honorable mention.

The prize-winning articles in this exhibition will be sent as representative of the work of the Atlanta Junior League to the national conference in Cincinnati to compete in the arts and interests exhibition of the association.

Mothers, Mix This At Home for a Bad Cough

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this simple home mixture and try it for a distressing cough or chest cold. It takes but a moment to mix and costs little, but it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. Pour this into a pint bottle; then fill it with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. The full pint thus made costs no more than a small bottle of ready-made medicine, yet it is much more effective. It is pure, keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

This simple remedy has a remarkable three-fold action. It goes right to the seat of trouble, loosens the gummy phlegm, and soothes away the inflammation. Part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly upon the bronchial tubes and thus helps inwardly to throw off the whole trouble with surprising ease.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded. —(adv.)

The Awkward Girl Must Learn to Move Slowly If She Would Be Less Awkward—A Man Who Prefers His Sister Before His Wife Is an Abnormal Man, and Repulsive—Unfortunately Jealous Love Does Last.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

I am a girl in my teens and at the age when girls want to be especially graceful. I am very awkward and clumsy. I fall over everything that happens to be in the way. I even go so far as to fall upstairs. I am bashful and blush every time anyone speaks to me, especially when the teacher speaks to me. It can't be on account of a guilty conscience. If you can give me some advice in regard to my trouble, I will appreciate it.

ANSWER:

If you can afford to take some lessons in aesthetic dancing it will give you bodily grace. If you cannot, then learn to skate. So much for the muscular discipline. Awkwardness or clumsiness, such as you describe, is deeper rooted than muscles. It is a matter of brain control. You are evidently terribly self-conscious and to overcome self-consciousness you must employ all the feminine arts and crafts. First keep your nails well manicured, particularly if you are a shy person, or if you are ugly. See to it that your hair is neat and your face always properly made up, not too much rouge and lipstick but just enough. A well-groomed girl is in a better frame of mind than a poorly groomed one who is trying to hide your hands or your feet, if you can see the reflection of a shiny nose, or straggling locks are always coming down, you can't think of anything else.

Nothing is so soothing to a girl's consciousness as the fact of being well groomed. It is the first lesson for every girl to learn when she sets her "foot on the carpet."

Take your time. The people who are always in a hurry are the ones who make mistakes. The stammerers are taught to speak very slowly, as one of the first steps in overcoming this defect of speech. The stammerers must teach themselves to step more slowly. Anybody is likely to fall up stairs if she goes too fast. Always remember to take your time. The hurry gets you nothing in the end. You lose more time by falling and having to get up than you do by going slowly. School yourself to take things more slowly.

As for your confusion when the teacher speaks to you, I don't know what to suggest but more careful preparation of your lessons. If you know your lessons you won't blush so much as you do when you are uncertain about the thing you are called on to recite.

And, of course, the crowning piece of advice is to get your mind off yourself. It is hard to do but it can be done. I heard a woman say to another recently: "If you are well dressed and well shod your timidity never bothers you but when you have an old dress and rusty shoes and look shoddy you always speak with a stutter and your face is red." If you are not like the comment and one can't blame her, but there was a world of truth in it. The assurance one has from being well groomed and well dressed is not to be discounted. If you are all right you can think of something else but if you are worrying over your appearance nothing else registers. This doesn't mean that a woman has to be expensively dressed or professionally "beauty-doctored." It simply means that she shall take time and thought for her personal appearance. Self-consciousness won't vanish overnight, even when it is properly covered up. It will be a long hard fight. Any girl in her teens who puts her mind on a defect in her character or in her physical appearance can correct it or improve it in time.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

I am one of the unfortunate ones who has made a mistake in my marriage. I have married a man who thinks more of his sister than he does of his wife. She comes first with him in everything. He doesn't show me the courtesy of a wife, much less the affection. When we are together and he gives me his attention she gets up and leaves the room. I have never seen such love between a brother and sister. It is humiliating to my pride. Sometimes I feel like killing myself, I am so distressed. If I demanded that he choose between us he would choose her. What can I do?

HEART-BROKEN WIFE.

ANSWER:

If you are absolutely dependent on your husband for support, there is nothing you can do but to school yourself to be completely indifferent to him and to his sister. Give him no opportunity to display his preference for his sister. Of course this is hard to do but in the end you will suffer less than if you allow yourself to be sunk in the love of a man who is not returned. If, on the other hand, you have some means of support and feel that you have done your duty to each of them, you will be justified in demanding that he choose between you and that he provide a separate home for his sister in case he does choose you. If he is unable to finance separate living quarters for her and you have independent income it would be only fair for you to use it for the upkeep of your home or for maintaining the sister elsewhere.

It must be galling to a woman's pride to have to face this situation. It is an abnormal state of affairs and, like all abnormalities, it is repulsive. These "fixations" which the psychologists speak of are insanities of a mild sort and they must be dealt with accordingly.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

I am a girl of 18 and have been going with a boy for two years. He has told me he loves me but he is very jealous. He doesn't want to speak to any other boys. Can a jealous love last? My parents do not object to my going with him. Should I continue to go with him or should I leave home and meet other boys?

UNDECIDED.

ANSWER:

You have allowed the young man's jealousy to get you on the run. Call a halt. He has no right to prescribe your course. I am sorry to say jealous love does last. It is a pity it doesn't die at birth. Make dates with the other friends and don't leave home to make them. Don't make the mistake of engaging yourself to such an imperative young man until you have formed friendship with other young men to whom you may compare him. If a girl is so much afraid of a boy as you seem to be of this one, a wife wouldn't be able to call her soul her own, once she is married to him.

Collins, Fessenden Win in Billiard Meet

NEW YORK, March 16.—(UP)—Percy N. Collins, of Chicago, and Ray Z. Fessenden, of Madison, Wis., won the opening matches in the national amateur 15.2 ball game today. Collins defeated H. T. BRADLEY SEEKS DERBY LAURELS FOR THIRD TIME

B'ar Hunter and Barometer To Carry Colors in May Classic.

NEW YORK, March 16.—(UP)—The Kentucky Derby picture would be hardly complete without the colors of Colonel Edward Riley Bradley. The green and white silks of the master of Idle Hour Farm have been prominent in this classic for a decade, and this year he has named B'ar Hunter and Barometer to compete for the coveted prize by which owners and breeders of thoroughbred horses set such great store.

These colts are fairly even matched, and although neither performed brilliantly as a juvenile the Kentucky sportsman hopes to win his third Derby with one of them. His particular favorite may be said to be B'ar Hunter, a bay son of Black Servant and Bit of White, which is a product of the Bradley breeding farm. He is a half brother to Blue Larkspur, third largest American money winner of all time, and resembles the latter in many respects. Barometer, by Trainer out of Pathos, also a sturdy fellow, and the fact that he has been nominated for this stake is a strong recommendation.

BENTON RECOVERS. Rube Benton, whose left hand was badly injured in an auto accident, expects to pitch as usual this year for Minneapolis.

Training Camp News

ROBINS PACK UP.

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 16.—(AP)—Professor Wilbert Robinson cut short today's practice session for his Brooklyn Robins to allow the players time to pack up their belongings and get themselves off on a flight to Bradenton, Fort Myers and eventually Havana. The Robins are the first club in Florida to break camp. Games will be played with the Cardinals and Athletics at Bradenton and Fort Myers and intra-club struggles are scheduled at Havana.

ONE BAD INNING.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 16.—(AP)—Detroit Tigers outbatted the Missions in an exhibition game here today, but took an 8-to-6 trimming because the coast team bunched most of their nine hits in one inning for six runs.

YANKS BEAT BRAVES.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 16.—(AP)—With Babe Ruth and Tony Lazzari setting the pace, the New York Yankees walloped the Boston Braves 8 to 6 today for their fourth victory in five starts against the National League.

The Babe connected only once in five times at the plate but the hit was a double and delivered with the bases loaded. The blow was assisted by a home run by Ed Walsh, who hit three doubles.

Home runs by Red Worthington and West Schumacher were among the 11 hits made by the Braves off Ed Walsh and Roy Sherid.

PITCHERS SENT TO VOL. PENNSACOLA, Fla., March 16.—(UP)—Rookie Pitchers Charlie Cronin and Sumner Collier were released by the Boston Red Sox to the Nashville Southern League club, following their appearance in today's practice game in which the regulars defeated the farm team 12 to 3.

Youngsters did the pitching for both sides and the game was featured by heavy hitting.

CRIPPLED REDS WIN. LAKELAND, Fla., March 16.—(UP)—Playing with a patched-up lineup because of injuries to Heath, Cuccinello and Cullip, the Cincinnati Reds today defeated Columbus, 12 to 11. The Reds counted the winning run in the ninth after the minor leaguers had hit Strelecki for five runs to tie the score in the eighth. It was Cincinnati's first victory in five games this season.

Score by innings:
Cincinnati 200 400 021-12 11 1
Columbus 002 220 050-11 18 2
Prez. Strelecki, Cuccinello, Cullip, Beckman, Dunford and Hinkle, Gillespie.

GIANT RALLY WINS. SAN ANTONIO, Texas, March 16.—(UP)—A three-run rally in the tenth inning gave the New York Giants a 9 to 6 victory over the Chicago White Sox today and evened the series at one game each. The Sox rallied five runs to tie the count at six-all in the eighth but were checked by Walker.

Lefty Hallahan blanked the Athletics for three innings and "Dizzy" Dean, rookie pitcher, duplicated the feat in the final three innings.

Score by innings:
Philadelphia (A) 000 001 000-4 8 1
St. Louis (N) 001 220 115-7 14 3

INDIANS SLOW UP. NEW ORLEANS, March 16.—(AP)—In spite of ideal weather, Rogers Peckinpaugh, the Cleveland Indians manager, let his team slide along restfully today with a little running and base sliding. Peckinpaugh said the boys were getting pretty well warmed up and could take it easy. Ferrell, who pitched four innings yesterday, didn't perform at all today.

BOLTON MAY STICK. BILOXI, Miss., March 16.—(AP)—Bolton, hard slugging rookie catcher from the Southern association, appeared today to have won himself a berth with the Washington Senators.

Manager Johnson said it was "very likely" Bolton would be retained all season because of his excellent showing. Bolton, from High Point, N.C., who led the Southern association hitters last year, has demonstrated his proficiency as a pinch hitter and shown marked improvement behind the bat.

The Senators took things easy today, smoothing out rough spots preparatory to another exhibition game with the Baltimore Orioles Wednesday.

SOLD BY DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE

SAME OLD RAJAH.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 16.—(AP)—The actions of Rogers Hornsby are becoming more and more reminiscent of the Rajah of 1929 when his 370 batting average helped bring the Cubs the National league championship. His legs have not bothered him in practice games, he has covered as much territory as he did two years ago, and his batting punch apparently has not been impaired.

PHILLIE STAR HURT.

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 16.—(AP)—Old Man Casually side-swiped the Phillies today, resulting in a broken nose for Ross, slugging first baseman. A fouled ball caught Hurst flush on the nose. Dr. W. T. Simpson said the player would be out of the game only a few days.

BROWNS STAY INDOORS. WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 16.—(UP)—Roy Brown, who today caused them to miss their practice for the first time this season, the Browns stayed indoors today and caused them to miss their practice for the first time this season.

Another feature of the Monday meeting was the adoption of a 14-game schedule, with eight teams playing home and home series. Marietta, University School, Fulton, Russell, Commercial, Decatur, Marietta and Newnan will start the season Monday, April 5 and close May 10. Griffin and R. E. Lee, of Thomaston, informed members of the committee not to include them in baseball.

Members of the baseball committee who drew up the schedule unanimously adopted the plan. L. B. Bon, of Russell, and Lucien Hope, of Fulton, others present were Joe Bean, Marietta; W. R. Wampler, Decatur; C. B. Maddox, Marietta; Rufus Gledwin, Commercial, and M. C. Bishop, Douglasville.

Following the adoption of the schedule, representatives of the various schools agreed as far as possible to play home and home series with Douglasville and Chamblee. Both were denied admission to the league due to a lack of funds. They were asked to be included on the baseball schedule but members of the committee voted to not prolong the season with 10 teams. It was unanimously voted that all eligibility lists must be in the hands of the committee by 5:30 o'clock Thursday, March 18. All games will start not later than 3:30 o'clock and the visiting team will have use of the field from 3:30 and 3:30 for batting and infield practice.

Nine men were named as official umpires for the league.

They were: Lewis Van Houten, L. D. Jolley, Jim Parks, Gene Kibler, "Tub" Dowdy, Cy Perkins, Monk Dorfan and Lewis Edgewood.

It was voted to close the schedule May 22 and to play all postponed games on or before that date. This schedule follows, with the reverse order of the games slated for the last day of the season.

NIGHT BASEBALL IN PREP LEAGUE ASSURED TEAMS

N. G. I. C. Agrees To Play Games Under Lights at Decatur Field.

By Roy White.

Night baseball will be played in Atlanta this spring. Although no definite date was set, members of the North Georgia Interscholastic Conference, in session Monday at the Atlanta Athletic Club, agreed to play at many as possible of the Decatur games at night.

Decatur High started night football last fall and it proved a success. The lights are being arranged for baseball, and practically all of the Decatur home games will be played under the lights.

Another feature of the Monday meeting was the adoption of a 14-game schedule, with eight teams playing home and home series. THE SPORTLIGHT

A GREAT TENNIS STAR.

CHARLESTON, S. C., March 16.—This present season has all the technical earmarks, whatever earmarks are, of one of the best tennis seasons this game has known in a long time. In addition to the amateur side there is the impending meeting of Tilden and Vincent Richards, rivals for more than ten years, which will take place later on.

The strength of the younger tennis set in the United States also makes the Davis cup competition a far more even affair than it has been since Cochet and Lacoste came to the crest, with Borotra in support.

It is for this reason that the indoor campaign now under way had all the greater attractions with the possibility of Frank Shields and Borotra meeting. Borotra is a hardy veteran to handle in any indoor court, but he will find young Shields one of the best he has ever met if they get together.

SHIELDS has improved a lot in the last year. He has the chance to be one of the best tennis players of this generation, for like Tilden he has the height, the reach and the speed, and already his share of tennis skill. Shields is a far better tennis player at twenty than Tilden was at twenty-two or twenty-three. He loves the game, he is willing to work at it, and if he has the time and chance he will go a long way in the next few years.

Young Sutter, of New Orleans, in the same tournament, is another rising star who will be a force to be reckoned with before the summer is over.

The Grip of Custom.

WHY IS IT? asks F. L. H. "that so many more people get so much more excited at some evidence or report of crookedness in sports than they do over crookedness or corruption in politics and finance?"

A judge or a governor or some other high official can get away without much of a public squawk, but let a ball player or a boxer go crooked, and the howl can be heard nearly to heaven.

There has always been a belief among the multitudes that the city or the state or the nation had to have a certain number of crooked politicians and public officials, but that most sporting games had to be honest. When the White Sox scandal stirred the country ten years ago there were then something like five governors in the penitentiary, with little comment offered. It apparently meant very little that a governor had been sent to jail.

There would be no such thing as a terrible hullabaloo when Shoeless Joe Jackson wandered off the straight and narrow, although Shoeless Joe never had anything like the training in his youth that most high officials draw.

If some of the things that have been taking place in New York city and elsewhere in the major leagues or one of the heavyweight championships, the uproar would jar loose masonry all over the country.

There would be widespread demands to abolish the sport. But no one has yet suggested abolishing politics or politicians.

Looking Up a Trifle.

WHICH brings up the fact that the heavyweight situation is beginning to smoke up a trifle. Tommy Loughran's double comeback against Bear and Schauf meant that he will have to receive new consideration. It gives Sharkey two fights to look after, with Carnera also in the offing.

Sharkey was a pugilist outcast a month ago and now he faces a chance for three fights provided he can win the first two by beating Loughran and Carnera. There will be no possible way to keep him out of the championship debate when Schmeling and Stripling have concluded their respective wars with leather sometime in June.

Whether one likes Sharkey or not has little to do with the matter. There are still too many who believe he is the best heavyweight around. Maybe he isn't. But someone will have to prove it this summer.

Loughran showed what the addition of eight or ten pounds can do to one's timing and speed. He was an entirely different boxer against Bear and Schauf from what he has been for the past year or so. As Dempsey put it, if you weigh 180 pounds you are big enough provided you can fight. Loughran isn't going to assassinate anyone but at least he may make several heavyweights sick of a left hand inserted in the right or left eye.

Hagen and Smith.

WALTER HAGEN and Horton Smith are making a desperate dash to pick up first money in the coming La Gorce open. They have played well enough to have bagged money in the past, but they have been split too many ways. If there is any such golfer in the field it is about time that he was proving his claim to the magic scepter.

'BITSY' GRANT, HINES INCREASE TEAM'S POWER

Northern Tour Planned. Young Aces Join Good Veteran Staff.

CHAPLAIN HILL, N. C., March 16.—The University of North Carolina tennis team, looking what with such prospects as Grant, Hines, Yeomans, Hendlin, Captain Graham, Liskin, Wright and Abels, around already has cast envious eyes upon the tennis strongholds of the north, and even has dreams of a national college title.

That fact became obvious today when Coach John Kenfield announced the portion of the Carolina schedule that will be devoted to the foreign tour.

With Sutter and Bayon, of Tulane; Cram, of Vanderbilt, and Fener, of Florida, all graduated, and with Seawander remaining as the one other outstanding southern team, the Tarheels have dropped their southern tour and have arranged instead a northern invasion.

Manhattan Night

By William Almon Wolff

INSTALLMENT XXXIV.

"Simple enough," Pete, 50's, we won't get to a certain place we're headed for too early. There's only one thing worse'n bein' too late—and that's being too early. Sometimes, this is one of them times."

"So Peter drove twice around Central park, and listened to Charlie's reminiscences of 15 years on the force. At another time these might have edified, entertained and instructed him; this evening their only effect was to fill him with a heart-felt desire to shed Charlie's gore. But, as, for the second time, the cab moved down toward the glowing electric signs that turned night into day over the somber masses of the but-tressed midtown skyline, Charlie looked at his watch again and tapped on the window.

"Down Fifth to Forty-four—then go west till I tell you to stop," he ordered. "And take it easy, bo. We're in no rush. Keep close to the curb below Fifty-seventh—I'm sort of lookin' for a friend."

They turned out of the park, and passing the gleaming, lighted bulk of the Plaza and Karl Bräuer's lovely, black statue, that would, within a month, be surrounded by tulips in full bloom, began to move, slowly, down Fifth Avenue.

Already limousines and cabs were going north, permitting glimpses of stiff white shirt fronts and evening wraps in every color of the spectrum. Charlie half rose, and leaned forward.

"Slide over," he said. "Change places, Pete. I want to be next the curb."

The cab moved along, jerkily, keeping close to the curb, its movement slowed up by the driver's obedience to that order of Charlie's, since here the lumbering buses took up most of the road. Charlie leaned out; he seemed to be looking at the lighted shop windows. Suddenly he spoke sharply to the driver.

"Pull up—stop here a minute," he said.

He had wrenched the door open and dropped to the roadway before the cab had stopped. Peter was always being surprised by the speed with which Charlie could move, when it suited him, in spite of his size. He saw him, now, go over and accost a tall man, no older than Peter himself, who seemed to be strolling aimlessly along, dinner jacket and white shirt showing through his unbuttoned overcoat. Charlie spoke earnestly for a moment; the other nodded, then, and turned back to the cab, following Charlie inside.

"Meet Officer Purdy, Mr. Wayne," said Charlie.

"I'm glad to meet you, Mr. Wayne," the plain clothes man said, pleasantly. "Got a hen on, have you, Charlie?"

"I'm hopin' so," said Charlie. "Tough. I'd pick you up somewhere along here."

He chuckled as he turned to Peter. "Don't look as much like a bull as most of us guys, does he?" he said. "It takes all sorts to make a police force. An' with a few million dollars in jewels and furs lyin' around, he's half an inch of plate glass—well—"

Stopping a starting, still crawling, the cab turned west at last. The traffic lights stopped, again, at Sixth Avenue; half way to Broadway Charlie tapped on the window again. "All right. Here we are. Pay this guy off, Pete. Next stop heaven—or the other place."

They walked along and stopped at the door of one of those old houses you still find in the forties, the upper floors of which have been cut up into flats that give transient shelter to Broadway's birds of passage. Charlie took a key from his pocket and opened the door.

"One on me," said Purdy. "But this isn't my stamping ground, of course."

Peter, utterly mystified, still was conscious of chilly fingers traveling up and down his spine. Whatever was coming was coming soon.

"Quiet, now," said Charlie. "Go easy on the stairs—tread light—put your toes down first, and if you hit a loose step skip it. All the way to the roof."

He led the way; Peter and the other detective followed. It was astonishing to find how light of foot the big detective was; to mark the way he aided any sound. On the topmost landing he paused to listen; tiptoed to each of two doors, and bent an ear attentively at each keyhole. "Nobody home, I guess," he said. "All right."

He reached up and drew down the ladder that led to a skylight and so to the roof. Peter, too excited to be thinking, to be speculating, even, as to the meaning of what was going on, followed. They crossed the roof, stepped across a low parapet, and down to the roof of the corresponding house in 48th street. Now their procedure was reversed, until they found themselves on the top landing. But Charlie did not lead the way down the stairs.

He took another key from his pocket, instead, and opened the door of the front flat—the one whose windows, Peter saw, must face the street.

The room was musty; both windows were closed, and a flat, stale smell of disuse hung in the air. Light came, intermittently, from a flashing electric sign, and Peter saw that this was a cheaply furnished room; there was a golden oak dining table, and he saw two or three atrocious chairs, and a steel engraving dating from the time of Grant's administration on one wall. Dust was over everything.

Charlie led the way into a smaller room. He took a third key from his pocket, and opened a closet door. But his flashlight illumined what Peter had expected to see, a row of empty pegs, but the head of a narrow flight of stairs.

"Got you?" said Purdy, enlightened. "Getaway, eh? Very neat, too. Gambling house, was it?"

"Ask a cop!" said Charlie. "Come on—and if you thought you was quiet before, make it double or quits now!" They crept down the stairs. Charlie in the lead, with only an occasional flicker of his torch to point to a break or a turn. Until they came to a solid steel door that gleamed in the faint light like the wall of a bank vault. No key unlocked this, but a series of heavy bolts, that had evidently been oiled recently, so smoothly and silently did they move under Charlie's fingers.

The steel door swung open, and now Peter could see a faint glow through a thin partition. He could do more than see; he could hear as well; hear low voices, one of which was provocatively, exclusively familiar. Charlie stood still, rooted, listening, leaning forward, his hand on another bolt.

Presently all sound beyond the partition ceased. A door had closed. Still Charlie waited; Peter wondered if the others, too, were holding their breath; was in deadly fear lest he sneeze or cough. But then, just as it seemed to him he couldn't endure the tension another moment, Charlie's hand moved, and the last bolt was slipped back. He pushed the partition aside, and they stepped, all three of them, into a room that Peter knew—a room in which he himself had been not 24 hours earlier—the room in which Benny had yesterday betrayed Martha to Connolly unless he got five thousand dollars!

"Know where you are now, Pete?" whispered Charlie. "So Benny wanted five grand tonight, did he? Well, he's got somethin' comin' to him, but it ain't a check! If I'd come in downstairs Benny'd have been off before I was halfway up in the elevator. He's got another getaway—I don't know where. But—he don't know about this one! Now—quick—and listen!"

"We're goin' right out that door, I gotta word to say to Benny. Dan, you head for the bar. Make out it's a liquor raid—see. Stick to Dan. If Rose or Zach or any of the other tip Dan off—I want to see them both. Everyone else but Zach—he's the barkeep, Dan—can go, for all of me. All set? Let's go!"

He flung open the door. Peter caught a glimpse of Benny's face, gone white, suddenly, with fear and amazement; he laughed, hysterically, as he saw Betty Rogers and Jimmy Bronson just stepping out of the elevator. Purdy slipped past him; he heard his pleasant voice in the bar.

"Quiet, please, ladies and gentlemen. I'm an officer. This place is being raided, but none of the patrons will be molested. Bartender, stay where you are."
